

New Warning Radar Increases War Risk

OTTAWA (CP) — Some authorities here are jittery as completion nears of the first of three missile warning radars.

They feel that this warning system is necessary but that, at the same time, it increases the chances of a nuclear war.

breaking out by miscalculation.

The big disadvantage of these 3,000-mile radars is that they can't distinguish between a nuclear-headed intercontinental ballistic missile and a peaceful satellite.

In fact, normal interference caused by sun flares and the like might appear on the radar scopes as a missile in space.

Canada is paying some $11,000,000 toward the cost of undersea and land communication between the radar at Thule, Greenland, now nearing completion, and North American Air Defence Command headquarters at Colorado Springs, Colo.

The network is a stop-gap until the United States develops the Midas satellite which would provide warning of missile launchings in the Soviet Union.

Canada will share with the United States control of the missile warning radars because one information centre will be at NORAD, a joint Canada-U.S. command.

It would not be up to NORAD to launch missile-and-bomber retaliation. But there will be another display centre at Strategic Air Command headquarters at Omaha, Neb.

Gen. Thomas Power, SAC commander, said last year he would not fire his missiles simply on the strength of information picked up by the missile warning radars. "Sure as shooting," he said, objects detected by the radars could well turn out to be "spit-niks, interference or something like that."

In the long run, all the radars may accomplish will be to keep NORAD and SAC headquarters in a state of nervous prostration.

POLICE, TROOPS SMASH NEGROES' STRONGHOLDS

South Africa Marks Coming of White Man

CAPETOWN (Reuters)—Government forces smashed Negro "danger points" Wednesday while South Africa officially celebrated the coming of the white man to the Cape of Good Hope more than 300 years ago. (See also Page 3.)

A strong government force encircled the Negro township of Nyanga outside Capetown, where police and Negroes clashed several times earlier this week. Police said the community was held by "terrorists."

300 ARRESTED

Heavily-armed police and army reservists broke a pocket of Negro resistance outside Durban. More than 300 "agitators" were arrested in the Negro suburb of Lamontville.

At the same time, the government reimposed the rule requiring non-whites to show identity cards to police on demand. An African campaign against the hated pass system sparked the current emergency. Police two weeks ago temporarily suspended the pass rules, which control the movement and activity of non-whites.

POLICE, TROOPS

Police and troops cracked down on the 16-day-old African campaign for political rights—marked by native strikes—while thousands of white South Africans headed for beaches and special holiday sports events.

An official holiday marked the establishment of the Cape Colony by Dutch settlers under Jan Van Riebeck April 6, 1652.

FEW ATTEND

Celebrations marking the creating of the Union of South Africa May 31, 1910, opened simultaneously with a $30,000,000 exhibition in Johannesburg, but crowds at the exhibition were small.

Troops completely closed off Nyanga township during the day while most of its 25,000 Negro inhabitants were at home.

RAYONETS FIXED

Soldiers with fixed bayonets stood at intervals of about 30 yards while others with machine-guns stood by.

Armored cars assembled in the area while planes and helicopters circled overhead during the day. Searchlights were mounted to sweep the area during darkness.

HIT HOSTELS

A strong force of police and army reservists moved in on a cluster of workers' hostels at Lamontville before dawn Wednesday. Police said defiant Negroes refusing to go to work had held the centre since Monday night.

The fenced buildings were surrounded and a police loud-speaker warned those inside the hostel would be cleared by gunfire if they did not come out peacefully.

WEAPONS SEIZED

The Negroes surrendered more than 300 of them were arrested. Police said they confiscated thousands of clubs, axes, picks and three firearms in the hostel buildings.

Business Hits Verwoerd Acts

By KEN MacTAGGART
Colonist Special Correspondent

JOHANNESBURG — The first serious crisis for the Verwoerd government loomed today as a rising wave of criticism of its violent anti-native policy recruited South Africa's powerful business forces.

In the face of the Public Safety Laws and the arbitrary authority to imprison without trial anyone who even suggests change of any legislation, the Cape Chamber of Commerce has requested an audience with the prime minister at which it is reported a demand will be made for government recognition of native leaders, changes in pass laws, and less rigid control of native movements.

Backed by comparable business voices in the Rand of Johannesburg area, the Cape chamber in this action has openly challenged the emergency regulations because government policy on all the matters it proposes is embodied in statutes.

But behind it has been evidence of a growing belief that the government's course has lost the support of a majority of the citizens of this country.

Although some still believe a separate development for natives is possible, they say it cannot be achieved by un-

Senator Seeks 'Friendship Dam'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Construction of Libby Dam jointly by the United States and Canada as a symbol of their friendship was suggested Wednesday by Senator Mike Mansfield (Dem., Mont.).

Disagreement between the two countries over benefits from the proposed Kootenay River Dam for years has prevented its construction in northwestern Montana by U.S. army engineers. The dam would back water into Canada.

Mansfield, assistant Senate Democratic leader, wrote his suggestion to State Secretary Christian Herter.

"Would it be possible," Mansfield asked, "to build the Libby project on the border between the two countries within the state of Montana and the province of British Columbia?"

"Would not a joint effort of this kind serve as a symbol of the friendship and the dependence, one upon the other, of the people of Canada and the United States?"

His Smell Worth $12,600

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Vancouver man who lost his sense of smell in an automobile accident three years ago has been awarded $12,600 in damages.

The settlement was announced to Chief Justice Sherwood Lett in B.C. Supreme Court Wednesday by J. Arthur MacLennan, counsel for Reginald Bailey of Vancouver.

The strictly vegetarian Dr. Moore explained she planned to live only on grass and fruit juice while trekking to New York via Washington.

"I shall be taking scientific observations on the effects of living on grass," she told reporters.

After her American walk, a long Canadian walk is on the agenda.

Wind Whips Floods In Mississippi

CHICAGO (AP) — Wind and waves pounded Mississippi River dikes Wednesday and set off new calls for help for flood-fighting forces.

The Red Cross has estimated that 31,000 persons have been affected thus far in 10 days of flooding in the Midwest. More than 1,000,000 acres of land have been inundated. Property damage has mounted into millions.

Mount Etna Erupting

CATANIA, Sicily (AP) — Mount Etna, Europe's tallest volcano, erupted Wednesday night, after four months of relative quiet.

Showers of ashes from the cone of the 10,705-foot volcano could be seen in this Sicilian resort at its foot. Explosions were coming at the rate of one every three or four minutes.

Villages are far down the side of Etna and were not in immediate danger.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

Now Montreal is just an afternoon away from here. A party of newspaper and radio men dreamed their way across the 2,500-mile distance in five hours' flying, aboard an air-conditioned magic carpet called a DC-8 jetliner.

They were guests of Trans-Canada Air Lines on the first flight of a service which is now carrying people both ways across the continent at a nine-mile-a-minute clip.

The same jetliner spans the distance from Vancouver to London in just 13 hours.

First-flight Montreal passengers travelled from the cherry blossoms and daffodils of the Pacific Coast to the ice-flecked St. Lawrence in the time it took to read a small pocket book.

Whistled Over Regina

"We have just passed over Regina. We will be over Winnipeg in 30 minutes from now. Our ground speed is 610 miles an hour."

"That was the voice of the captain, addressing us over the speaker from the cabin up front where he sat with two other pilots, a radio officer and an engineer, surrounded by a dizzy assortment of dials and electronic gadgets.

An air-conditioning nozzle, controllable by thumb and forefinger, blew a spring breeze in my face. The below-zero air outside the window was too thin to support life. Pumps compressed it into an island of ground-level air that travelled with the 127 passengers.

There was no vibration from the four Rolls-Royce by-pass jet engines, worth $250,000 each, which spun a faint smoke-trail as they whistled our $6,000,000 airplane toward Toronto and Montreal.

Rushed Away from Sun

This 150-foot giant, as long as a train, longer than the distance that the Wright Brothers flew at Kitty Hawk, travelled so smoothly that a baby still in the seat next to mine stayed quiet and good in her mother's arms, all the way to Toronto.

"The last time I flew from Vancouver to Toronto, I started at 8 in the morning and didn't get there until 11:30 at night," said the baby's mother.

When she got off at Toronto, four hours and 13 minutes after the Fraser River had slid under the wing, the baby was still smiling.

New passengers came aboard. Thousands of colored lights flashed past us. "Fasten your seat belts. No smoking." A farewell message from the hostess in English and French, and we were stepping down the long steps from the DC-8 at Dorval.

For us, it was only 8:30 p.m., but for the people in Montreal it was 11:30. Our plane had carried us away from the sun in a rush.

Policy Crisis Ahead

lateral acts of one race backed by police.

Rumors have persisted that cabinet support of Verwoerd has been wavering recently.

A prominent Afrikaaner and chairman of the wool board, Dr. J. H. Moolman, last week-end rocked the country when he said that government policies must change, using the phrase "policies must be amended or else."

CHANGE POLICY

This coincided with an editorial in The Burger, official organ of the Nationalist party, calling for a change of policy.

In 12 years of Nationalist rule, nothing like this had ever occurred before, and the editorial was supported by statements from nine leading clergymen, including three former moderators of the Dutch Reformed Church.

Yesterday, the latest issue of Kerkblad, organ of the most orthodox of the three wings of the church, editorially called for greater consideration of natives.

It asked, "Can you show us in the Bible where it says that a man by reason of his white skin is allowed to curse natives as cheap laborers, to kick them and to ignore attitudes, feelings, and grievances?"

SAME CHURCH

The editorial is backed by written endorsement of five church professors. This was the church which four years ago presented a written explanation to the World Council of Churches as to why whites and blacks must not worship in the same church.

A revulsion at reports of natives being clubbed and beaten unmercifully, and a wave of protest—much of it unspoken because of the muzzling speech and press laws—can be felt.

Negro Strongholds Smashed crowd Monday night. Reports Tuesday said hundreds of the 4,500 Negroes in the hotel buildings packed up their belongings and left for native reserves.

SCHOOL BURNS

A primary school for colored (mixed race) children outside Capetown was badly damaged by fire Tuesday. The blaze gutted six of 12 classrooms in the wooden schoolhouse at Elsie's River.

At Nyanga, police announced they shot, wounded and arrested four of a group of Negro "intimidators" Tuesday night. The arrested men attacked a police patrol escorting other Negroes home from work, police said.

DEATH TOLL 80

Some 80 Negroes have been killed since the current wave of African resistance to racial segregation laws broke out March 21 with police shootings at Sharpeville and at Langa, near Nyanga.

Justice Minister Francois Erasmus announced reimposition of the pass laws.

EMPLOYERS GUILTY

He warned employers they were guilty of an offence if they employed passless non-whites and said police "will again be able to demand pass books or temporary documents."

Erasmus said that "as a result of riots and intimidations which accompanied them there are at present numbers of Bantu (Negroes) who are not in possession of their reference (pass) books."

Such Negroes could apply to the authorities for a temporary duplicate, the statement said.

Erasmus said the government, without sacrificing necessary control measures, would investigate the possibility of applying the pass system in such a way as to emphasize the advantages it held for Africans.

GANGSTERS

In Pretoria, a police spokesman complained that Negro "gangsters" acting for "so-called leaders of African political organizations" have adopted the role of "freedom fighters."

But these persons will be tracked down and given "the punishment they deserve," the spokesman added.

BUSINESS, CHURCH

Appeals for a reappraisal of the government's policy of apartheid came from more business and religious leaders, and from spokesmen for the opposition to Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd's Nationalist party.

The Johannesburg Star reported that business leaders in Johannesburg and Cape-town had requested an interview with Verwoerd to demand a radical change.

CHANGE SYSTEM

Commercial, mining, industrial and engineering leaders, the Star said, intend to ask Verwoerd to consult immediately with influential Negro leaders and substitute identity cards for passes.

The business leaders also want the government to undertake a strong campaign against the hoodlum element in the Negro settlements.

BEST MAN

Many said they regard Albert Lutshuli, imprisoned president of the African National Congress, as the best man to help build a bridge between the whites and blacks. They want to ask for his immediate release for consultations with white leaders.

In London diplomats said the West plans to propose an African arms freeze at next month's summit conference to prevent an arms race among the new nations of the continent.

In Ottawa, Immigration Minister Fairclough said no organizations or individuals have asked the government to admit refugees from South Africa.

In Durban more than 650 South Africans sought information in the last week on how they might emigrate to Canada and Australia, more than twice the normal rate.

Labor Calls for Boycott

Protest Against Africa

Victoria Labor Council last night called for a nationwide boycott of goods produced in South Africa.

Protesting racial policies and harsh repressive measures used on African workers, delegates passed a resolution calling on the Canadian Labor Congress to organize the boycott on a national scale.

ASK SUPPORT

Delegates went on to approve a motion asking for backing from the Chamber of Commerce.

There was a lone dissenter as the boycott resolution was passed with a standing vote.

The federal government as well as those other countries which have adopted a "hands-off" policy on the apartheid issue came in for strong criticism.

LITTLE SUPPORT

A suggestion that Canada press for expulsion of South Africa from the Commonwealth, however, met with little support.

IWA delegate Jack MacKenzie said he disagreed with the proposal "because it seems the only way we can help these people is to have them remain within the Commonwealth."

'Provocation' 'Brutality'

LONDON (Reuters)—London newspapers under bold, black headlines yesterday blasted South African police for using "provocation," "brutality" and "intimidation" against Africans.

The papers called in editorials on South Africa to abandon its segregation policies.

Typical front-page headlines:

"Stop the beatings," Daily Herald (Labor); "Six hours of terror," Daily Mirror (Pro-Labor); "Terror of the sjambok (whip) cuts," Daily Sketch (Conservative).

The Times, Independent, asks how South African Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd and "his faithful backwoodsmen" could be "so mad as to think that they can cow a proud, fighting race into submission."

"Will nothing teach them that the world has left the 19th century behind?" it asks.

CAN'T BREAK WILL

The up-to-date military equipment at Verwoerd's disposal "can kill more men and women than the muskets did, but they cannot break the will of the Bantu."

"There must be a change of policy."

SURVIVAL

"The future prosperity—the future survival—of white South Africans depends on their ability to rid themselves of rulers who have shown that they are quite incapable of acting in contemporary terms."

The Conservative Daily Telegraph says that "what is appalling about this new twist to South African racialism is that, unlike apartheid legislation, which had no chance of working, unlimited terrorism may well succeed, at least temporarily."

RULE OF FORCE

"But the price Dr. Verwoerd will have to pay is final, irrevocable and explicit adoption of the rule of force and force alone, which means in effect declaration of civil war."

The Liberal News-Chronicle comments that "Africans have shown a quite astonishing restraint in the face of official provocation."

"But their patience cannot be inexhaustible," and "the spontaneous outrage, the killing of policemen and the wrecking of property which have already been reported will become more and more frequent."

The News-Chronicle adds that "if South Africa's membership of the Commonwealth is used to shield her from the disgust of the British government and people, there will be a growing demand for her expulsion."

African Organization To Ask for Expulsion

LONDON—The Committee of African Organisations yesterday announced it has asked Commonwealth prime ministers to attend a meeting here next month to ask them to expel South Africa from the Commonwealth.

Indian Prime Minister Nehru has agreed to attend, the committee said.

Other developments: In Pretoria, religious leaders from all parts of South Africa called on the country to observe next Sunday as a "national day of prayer and penitence."

In Johannesburg, it was reported that Liberal Patrick Van Rensburg, an organizer of the boycott of South African goods in Britain, has taken refuge in the British protectorate of Swaziland.

In Capetown a "publications and entertainments" bill introduced in Parliament foreshadowed stringent censorship of books and periodicals in South Africa. It does not affect daily newspapers, but provides that no books, periodicals or films may be published, distributed or displayed without prior government approval.

'Niggling Red Tape' Binds Government Bookkeeping

OTTAWA—Liberal J. W. Pickersgill took aim at "a lot of niggling red tape" in the way the government accounts for its receipts and expenditures.

Mr. Pickersgill centred his criticism on the practice of counting all government spending as a charge against the taxpayers even though some of the expenses are covered by non-tax payments for the services rendered.

It was "perfectly ridiculous," for example, to list the total expenditures for the RCMP without showing that much of it was offset by payments for RCMP services as a provincial police force in eight provinces.

Ottawa Roundup

Canada's best bet for weapon production for NATO is its new submarine detection gear, according to informants here.

Defence Minister Peakes said this week that the NATO defence ministers decided last weekend that the alliance's armaments committee would prepare a list of about 20 promising projects being developed in member countries for further examination.

Labor organizations in 11 countries have protested to Prime Minister Diefenbaker over the federal government's refusal to grant a civil service pay raise last year.

Gabriel Roberge (L. Megantic) called in the Commons for the removal of the 11-per-cent federal sales tax on confectionery—or at least a considerable reduction in it.

Ottawa has offered aid to British Columbia for development of the Columbia River power project, Richard Bell, Finance Minister Fleming's parliamentary assistant, has disclosed.

More than 4,000 miles of motor vehicle roads have been built through Norwegian forests in the past five years.

Enumerating B.C. Electors

WHILE in the ordinary way registration of provincial electors for the B.C. voters' list proceeds through the regular offices of the province in each major centre throughout most of the year, a house-to-house canvass by official enumerators is now under way in Victoria. B.C. enumerators are working in city districts this week, and from the progress they are making a completed roster, subject to revision, could be reached here possibly in 10 days' time. It is obvious the Bennett administration intends to be prepared with an up-to-date voters' list very soon, and list revision is one of the precedent steps to a provincial general election.

Opposition parties in the legislature have asked the government a number of times when the Social Crediters would go to the country. The session just prorogued was the fourth of the present term, and it would be unusual and against much contrary precedent if the administration were to wait until such a reference became mandatory, as in 1961 it will. On his return from a vacation this week Premier Bennett again eluded a direct answer to the question of when a provincial general election will be called. Presumably this will be when the government is ready.

Meanwhile enumeration of voters on a house-to-house basis now would suggest that so far as the technical requirements are concerned the issuance of an election writ could come at comparatively short notice. Election law requires an official period of due notice in which all parties can prepare themselves for the test, but modern practice has made that period progressively shorter. The compilation of the actual lists that will serve at the general election and the printing of the official voters' list for all practical purposes start B.C.'s election machinery in motion. The issuance of an election writ, whenever it is to come, will be the final official action.

From a political standpoint, the present regime has a number of irons in the fire on which it may be awaiting terminal action. The Peace and Columbia power projects, and the Yukon railway, three of the largest, are at the moment in a state of flux. Assured on one or other of these schemes in finality, the government might decide to take the plunge at either side of the coming vacation period, an interval in which most provincial voters would be away from their homes.

Voters Come First

VICTORIA city council, in pursuing study of a report on the respective merits of single and multiple polling stations for civic elections, has asked for some additional information on voting percentages in municipalities. The information when available may be useful, but only to a limited extent. It does not necessarily follow even in a region as closely-knit as Greater Victoria that percentages in some municipalities have relevance in others.

What Victoria should have is the best polling system for its own region. The report made to the council last year and now under discussion by the finance committee concluded that the single station system is best because it is simple and economical. But in elections and plebiscites simplicity and economy in the machinery of taking the vote are not the important factors. The paramount consideration must always be that of providing the best possible means for all voters able and willing to cast their ballots to reach a place where they can do so.

In this the comfort and convenience of the voters should override the convenience of the election staff. A single station rather than several strategically located throughout the electorate makes for simple counting procedure and a quick announcement of results; but is that all that matters? There are in Victoria a great many elderly or infirm people, for example, who perhaps could make their way to a neighborhood polling station but might find the journey to a central booth too strenuous. There are the other and less admirable voters who are too lazy to travel far but might be induced to vote if there were a place near-by.

If the single-station plan gets out all the votes it is reasonable to expect, well and good. But no citizen should be deprived of the opportunity of voting or be deterred from doing so simply in order that the convenience of the poll staff should have priority.

A Notable Occasion

THIS is an era of centenary celebrations of various kinds and one such in prospect this month is of a military flavor of interest to Victorians. It concerns the Queen's Own Rifles of Canada, whose two-year stay at the former Gordon Head camp left many pleasing memories behind. The green berets of the 2nd Battalion were a popular sight on city streets until their posting to West Germany in 1957.

It may surprise some to learn that a Canadian regiment outdates Canada as a federated nation, yet the Queen's Own was born seven years before confederation took place. It was on April 26, 1860, that a Toronto unit called the Volunteer Militia Rifles was formed, and its history has been part and parcel of the national life ever since. Now known as the Queen's Own Rifles of Canada and one of the six regular army infantry regiments, it boasts the distinction of being the oldest unit of them all.

The 100th anniversary to be celebrated in Toronto this month is therefore a historic one, recalling as it does a long roll of service to the nation. The unit fought in the Fenian raids, it took part in the Riel Rebellion, it lists the Boer War, the two World Wars and Korea among its battle honors. More than any other existing Canadian regiment, probably, it parallels the military history of the country.

A famous field-marshal, Roberts of Kandahar, was once the regiment's colonel-in-chief; and another famous field-marshal, Montgomery of Alamein, will attend the 100th reunion dinner as guest speaker. The years bridged by these great soldiers reflects the continuity of the Queen's Own, whose centenary events constitute a notable occasion in the annals of the Canadian Army. The regiment's Victoria friends will salute the green berets in absentia as they gather for such momentous purpose.

Interpreting the News

Drama at UN Council

By JOSEPH MACSWEEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

BERNARDUS G. Fourie, South Africa's ambassador, a man of medium stature, quick movements and steady courage, has an alert and keen look in United Nations debates.

During the Security Council vote on the South African racial issue, Fourie kept his eyes fastened in obvious suspense on Sir Pierson Dixon, the British ambassador to the UN.

It was as if the South African saw in the British delegate the only hope for softening the imminent diplomatic blow against his country.

When Dixon's hand went up in token of abstention on the vote criticizing South Africa and demanding an end to its apartheid racial separation, Fourie smiled and relaxed. Later he put on a front that was almost gay.

Fourie apparently saw the abstentions by Britain and France as the best that could be salvaged in the face of bitter denunciation of his country's racial laws. Corridor rumor had predicted accurately that France, criticized earlier by the UN for Algerian policies, would follow the British lead. All other countries in the 11-member council denounced South Africa.

Observers saw a touch of irony in that the South African government, which is considering changing the country to a republic, possibly outside the Commonwealth, nevertheless looked hopefully for British support for its legal position in the debate.

This legal argument is based on the UN charter's provision that "nothing contained in the present charter shall authorize the United Nations to intervene in matters which are essentially within the domestic jurisdiction of any state."

The UN has condemned South Africa a number of times and about the only thing new in the resolution was that UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld was instructed to take a personal hand in the matter.

No precise steps for Hammarskjöld were set out and observers feel he may well be hoping that pressure within the Commonwealth itself will help his task. So far, South Africa has refused to cooperate in UN recommendations.

Today's Germany

Self-Pity
And Pride

By CASSANDRA, from London

THE Germans find us puzzling. We find them—let us say—little odd. They accuse us of having too long memories. We accuse them of having too short memories.

Let me give you an example of the latter.

I have before me a copy of a book published by the press and information office of the Federal German government. It is beautifully produced with color photographs and first-class layout and typesetting. It is called "Facts About Germany."

The main body of the book is an exultant exposition of the undoubted economic power of the new Germany. Chapter One, which departs for a moment from the vaunting theme, is entitled "Contemporary History—From 1945 to 1958."

It is a mixture of blubbery self-pity and swanking, renaissance pride. This section consists of 87 lines of closely-set type.

Only one paragraph mentions by implication Adolf Hitler and his reign of bestial evil in which Germany exulted for the best part of 20 years.

It says: "This world (the victorious Allied world) which had just overwhelmed the German armed forces, was now calling the German people to account because their criminal German government had for 12 years discounted human dignity and the laws of international co-existence."

You get the gibe and the complaint? If you don't the official West German publication is at pains to make it clear. It says:

"In the year 1945, after the Second World War, the whole apparatus of state was destroyed, together with all the machinery of government, and German territory was wholly occupied by foreign troops."

"More than 16,000,000 Germans and German-speaking men and women were driven from their homes and deprived of all their possessions. The people existed on a starvation diet that amounted to only 40 per cent of the minimum recommended by nutritional experts."

"Fuel and clothing were hardly to be found, and what was produced in 1946-47 would have provided, at the same rate, only one suit for each inhabitant every 40 years and one shirt every 10 years."

"At the end of the war millions of men capable of working were still in captivity. About 5,000,000 dwellings were completely or partially destroyed."

"The entire people had completely lost their economic security. When cold and hunger came, they brought with them epidemics causing death of infants and aged; contagion threatened to spread."

No mention in this official Adenauer-sponsored book was made of what they did to Russia—the best part of 30,000,000 innocent people killed by sword, famine and exposure.

No mention of the enslavement of 90 per cent of Europe; the gas ovens of Auschwitz; the bombings of Warsaw, Rotterdam and Coventry; the massacres of Malmédy, the Argentine Caves, Lidice and all the other unspeakable crimes that stretched from Normandy to the Ukraine.

No mention of 6,000,000 Jews relentlessly and determinedly done to death.

Only public mourning in this self-pitying and self-applauding publication for the wreckage of their abominable hopes and desires when it was repaid in tiny measure and visited back upon them in the German Fatherland.

No wonder the amiable, woolly-headed delegates at the Koenigswinter Anglo-German conference found it a shade difficult to agree.

Reports from Ottawa

PRIME Minister Diefenbaker has left an impression that he has protested in the name of Parliament to the South African high commission.

He did not say how they had been made known, or by whom. His office declines to disclose this information. So does the department of external affairs. So does the acting South African high commissioner, Dr. C. B. H. Fincham.

This impression flows from his statement in the Commons that "the views that have been expressed in this chamber in recent days have been made known to the representative of South Africa in Ottawa."

He did not say how they had been made known, or by whom. His office declines to disclose this information. So does the department of external affairs. So does the acting South African high commissioner, Dr. C. B. H. Fincham.

This secrecy raises the suspicion that there may not in fact have been any formal communication addressed to Dr. Fincham by the prime minister or Foreign Minister Green of the foreign ministry. And it is not inconceivable that this making-known was no more than the mailing of marked copies of Hansard to Dr. Fincham.

The weight that any government places on a communication from another government depends on the method of communication between the two governments as well as on what is said in the communication.

The United States recently delivered a formal diplomatic note to the Union government on the racial situation. This course demanded Pretoria's attention. Diefenbaker has rejected opposition suggestions that Canada follow a similar course.

Short of a note, other forms of formal and informal approach are available—an aide-memoire, or a letter to Dr. Fincham, or a request that Dr. Fincham call on the prime minister, or on the foreign minister, or on undersecretary Norman Robert.

The Packback

Bewildered Era

By GREGORY CLARK

JAZZ enthusiasts, of course, are as dignified a group of our demilitarized as are our lovers of abstract and non-representational painting, or those who actually purchase the cramp-in-the-brains articles of sculpture that our modern sculptors queue out of plaster or bang together with scraps of metal. This is a bewildered era. You can hardly blame some people for looking down some pretty queer alleys for a way of escape.

To a jazz expert I posed this question: "Why doesn't jazz—true jazz, holy jazz, classic jazz—compose its own music, its own tunes? Has it no creative imagination? Why does jazz merely take some composition already well known and widely accepted, and beat the bejeepers out of it? For instance, I just heard a famous jazz ensemble take that old-timer, 'Why Not Take All of Me?' and make it sound like a fellow slapping mosquitoes. You had to listen carefully to be sure it was the old familiar tune. But there it was. Jazz apparently can't say anything but what has already been said, and goof it up."

The jazz expert was pale with indignation. "The purest jazz, as any intelligent person knows," he stated, "is music created for itself."

Well, then, who are these characters who are doing to good old tunes what sculptors are doing to good old clay and what painters are doing to good old red, white and blue?

Insects on the March

(From The Ottawa Journal)

MAN has paid little heed to the warning that insects will one day rule the earth. But the insects appear to be taking it more seriously. Evidence that the bugs are revolting is in The Canadian Insect Pest Review, published by the department of agriculture. This document records the appearances and depredations of all manner of nasty little creatures.

The revolution is not general yet. Reports of beet webworms attacking beets, corn borers boring corn, mountain ash sawfly dutifully damaging mountain ash indicate that most insects still know their place.

But there are rabble-rousers too, insects which scoff at the scheme of things and strike wherever they please. In Ottawa, wharf-borers have forsaken the wharves and moved into houses. So have chicken mites—"one infestation near Ottawa being severe enough to temporarily drive out the occupants"—clover mites, and field crickets. The seed-corn maggot has attacked carrots, tobacco and potatoes. The alfalfa looper has been at the lettuce again.

Clearly there is trouble afoot. And with centipedes and even millipedes on the march, that's a lot of trouble. The danger is obvious in a report of numerous armyworm-larvae, but note this too: "The booklouse was more troublesome than usual at Ottawa during the fall."

We'll never keep them in their place once they get educated.

The government was guilty of this same kind of gutless pussyfooting when it abstained from voting on the most recent United Nations Assembly resolution to condemn the Union government's apartheid policy. The excuse then was that if Canada supported the resolution—as it had done on a similar resolution a year earlier—it might help drive South Africa out of the Commonwealth.

The day is rapidly approaching, if it is not here already, when even the "white Commonwealth" would consider South Africa's withdrawal as good riddance.

As I see it, recent developments in the Union require the Canadian government either to pussyfoot ad nauseam, or to stand up and be counted. The pressure of world opinion is the best hope of persuading Prime Minister Hendrik F. Verwoerd to halt the tragic course of events and seek, with native leaders, a new and fair basis for racial co-existence.

But in Ottawa the policy of pussyfoot prevails. The government is even unwilling to instruct our high commissioner in Pretoria, J. J. Hurley, to inform the Union government formally of our Parliament's distress and alarm.

Race Against Time

By MARQUIS CHILDS

AS the days, the weeks, the months tick off, the most priceless commodity is time. The race is against the spread of nuclear weapons to keep them from the possession not of the present three or four powers, but of six and then seven and eight and then 10 or 12.

If this happens the hope of checking the competition for nuclear arms will have been foreclosed and the chances of an accidental war will have been enormously increased. The realization of this was clearly behind everything President Eisenhower said at his press conference.

One remark went almost unnoticed. That was the possibility of newer and, while he did not add this, far more economical ways of producing the hydrogen fusion. At least one such method is now theoretically possible. And if we have learned one thing in the past two decades it is that what is theoretically possible soon becomes practically possible.

The nightmare grimly visible behind the president's measured words is a world in which Red China has nuclear weapons; and in a decade or perhaps a little longer a Castro in Cuba and a Nasser in Egypt with the ultimate power of destruction.

This is a nightmare that should give pause to even the most-determined proponents of continued testing to perfect the American nuclear arsenal.

Of President Eisenhower's eight years in the White House only 268 days remain. The question is whether in this short span of time it will be possible to get an agreement on nuclear testing. That is of paramount importance both as a beginning and as a symbol.

Within the administration there is at least the professed hope that a nuclear test treaty can be approved at the summit conference and ratified by the Senate within 90 days or before adjournment of Congress on July 1. The Senate leaders say it is quite impossible.

The value of time depends, of course, on the use that is made of it. In the Senate it has been squandered. With several days of the civil rights controversy still to run, a whole month or more has gone with the wind. The routine business that may be done is piled up awaiting action.

Time figures heavily in the calculations on whether at least a small start can be made in checking the nuclear arms race. Under the American system the president cannot hold his successor to any commitment that he makes. Thus a proposed moratorium on low-level explosions, falling outside the range of inspection, cannot be assured beyond next January 20.

The president was given a chance to say that continuity might come through the participation of Democratic senators at the summit. They will be in command of the same key committees after next January. But except on the narrowest terms—when an international conference is actually considering a treaty—he rejected this opportunity.

Time has been wasted in so many ways. The impetus toward agreed disarmament and an interim settlement of Berlin was strong after Premier Khrushchev's visit to this country. President Eisenhower plainly showed his disappointment when a summit meeting in December was blocked by Charles de Gaulle of France.

Here, too, it is a question of how the time was used. De Gaulle was able to stem a new army revolt in Algeria that seemed for a time about to topple the Fifth Republic. But there is no evidence that the Algerian war is any nearer to settlement and, without a settlement, France remains under a grave handicap.

A dictatorship can take decisions that in a free society mean a prolonged hassle with conflicting forces. Khrushchev could go to India and Indonesia and give immediate and definite assurances of further substantial aid. While we ourselves are confident of the advantages in a free choice, this swiftness and immediacy of decision have a dangerous attraction for peoples struggling to overcome seemingly insurmountable economic problems.

Those who oppose the president on the negotiation of a test ban that cannot be 100 per cent guaranteed fail to understand one thing. That is that time will not stand still. The forces set in motion will move on to their inexorable end unless positive, unceasing, constructive effort is made to halt them.

Again and again it has been assumed since 1945 that the United States was all-powerful and could remain so no matter what any other nation did or said. It is another kind of isolationism that we see today in a singularly dangerous manifestation.

What to Do With Expert On Chinese?

WASHINGTON (AP)—What to do with a U.S. diplomat who wins an "A" in his Chinese language training? One possibility is to send him to London where he can jabber in a chop suey joint with British experts on China.

This picture of what the state department did with one Foreign Service Institute graduate was unfolded in House of Representatives appropriations sub-committee hearings made public Tuesday. Investigators for the sub-committee, of which Representative John J. Rooney is chairman, found only about half of the language institute's graduates were sent to posts using the language in which they

Pretty Difficult

Brown—With respect to the difficult languages; yes sir. Rooney—I imagine Chinese would be pretty difficult? Brown—Yes, sir. Rooney—It would be for me. I find a gentleman here, an FSO-6 (middle grade foreign service officer). He got an "A" in Chinese and you assigned him to London. Brown—Yes, sir. That officer will have opportunities in London—not as many as he would have in Hong Kong, for example. Rooney—What will he do? Spend his time in Chinatown?

Playing Games?

Rooney—Are they playing games or is this serious business? Brown—This is serious business. Rooney—Can you describe to me how this would happen? This officer, who is an FSO-6, probably would not be on too important a mission to the British foreign office, would he? Brown—That is correct. Rooney—But he has a counterpart in the British foreign office who is also studying Chinese and they sit down and they talk Chinese together; is that right? Brown—Yes.

Livestock Deals Lacked Licence

Lack of livestock dealers' licences led two men to be hauled into Colwood police court yesterday by Alfred L. Kirkby, brands inspector for the provincial department of agriculture.

Henry Yow Chung, View Royal, and Paul Jolal Singh, Nanaimo, were fined $10 each by Magistrate A. L. Thomas on charges of buying and selling sheep or cattle without possessing the necessary licence.

Franklin K. C. Petrusson and Joseph Raymond Harper, both of Work Point, were fined $75 each following conviction by Magistrate William Ostler in city court on a joint charge of attempted theft.

The two were spotted March 17 by Const. John Kelly at Industrial Iron and Metal Trading Co. Ltd., 343 Tyee Road, near a partly-dismantled car.

Only 30 Doukhobors Want Bargain Land

The attorney-general's department said yesterday that only 30 Doukhobors have applied to buy land offered to them at bargain rates by the provincial government three years ago.

'Real' Peter Pan Killed by Train

LONDON (UPI)—Peter Pan is dead.

Peter Llewellyn Davies, 68, the real-life inspiration for Sir James Barrie's legendary lad who never grew up, fell from a London subway platform last night and was struck by a train.

Davis, a publisher who was one of Barrie's adopted sons, died in hospital. His boyhood fictional counterpart had said "to die will be an awfully big adventure."

Tragedy had cast its shadow over the lives of Davies and his brothers. Their parents, Sylvia and Arthur Llewellyn Davies, died when they were young.

His brother George became the leading character of Barrie's "The Little White Bird." George died in the First World War at the age of 21.

Another brother, Michael, who inspired the play, "Mary Rose," drowned while swimming at Oxford.

Peter Davies' literary fame began when he was a boy of 10 playing with his brothers in Kensington Gardens.

Compensation Man Fake Police Warn Employers

Employers in the Victoria area have been warned to be on the lookout for a man claiming to be an official of the Workmen's Compensation Board and attempting to gain access to employer records.

"All our auditors and inspectors carry credentials," a WCB spokesman said. "Employers who are not familiar with persons claiming to be WCB personnel should request to see their credentials before allowing them access to records."

Spanish Pact Defended

Nikita's 'Slander' Draws Bonn Fire

BONN (UPI)—West Germany protested in a sharp note to Russia yesterday that Premier Khrushchev's visit to France degenerated into a slander campaign against the Bonn government and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

The note demanded that such attacks be halted and said Khrushchev's efforts to draw a parallel between the Adenauer government and that of Adolf Hitler were aimed at undermining attempts at Franco-German reconciliation.

AIR BASES, TOO

Dispatch of the note coincided with an announcement in parliament by Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano that West Germany wanted to set up air force training areas as well as military supply depots in Spain.

Von Brentano indicated West Germany was determined to go ahead with its quest for military facilities in Spain despite the criticism that broke out earlier this year when the idea was disclosed.

RIGHTS TRODDEN

Opposition Socialists heatedly accused the government of trying to form a military alliance with a country "in which human and civil rights have continuously been trodden into the ground." The foreign minister replied that Spain was "certainly true to the West" and had a military pact with the United States.

"The federal government," he said, "was not only justified, but it was also its duty to ask the Spanish government if it is ready in principle to take up negotiations with the federal government over the erection of supply depots and training areas."

Farmers Win French Credit

PARIS (Reuters)—On the eve of planned mass farmers' demonstrations, the French cabinet Wednesday approved credits worth $350,000,000 for agricultural reform bills.

The bills include plans for more economic use of land by redistribution of holdings, technical training for farm workers, insurance and formation of national parks.

den, Mr. Bell said, he could not recommend wage increases "as I feel the existing wages are adequate, fair and just for the services rendered."

He disagreed with using New Westminster or Vancouver pay scales as a basis for Victoria agreements. "I maintain each area has its own problems to settle," he said, "and he took issue with the use of a conciliation board as an arbitration board, as required in municipal wage disputes with policemen and firemen."

Between the duties of conciliation and arbitration boards, he said, "there is a substantial and fundamental difference."

The civic delegation, including the reeves of Oak Bay and Saanich as well as the mayor and city manager because the wage rates in those two municipalities are tied to the city's, will protest to Mr. Wicks against the size of the wage increase and will also ask for clarification of the majority award.

Can Old Pros Stop Kennedy?

By LYLE C. WILSON

MILWAUKEE (UPI)—The time has come for a couple of battered old political pros to take over strategic command of the stop-Kennedy movement.

The old pros are Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas, and Harry S. Truman of Missouri. They may have valuable aid from another who in her own right is worth a regiment of politicians—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt.

Returns from Wisconsin's presidential preference primary summon Rayburn, Truman and Mrs. Roosevelt to the stop-Kennedy high command.

By any reasonable evaluation of the Wisconsin returns, Sen. John Kennedy (D., Mass.) licked Sen. Hubert Humphrey

ELEANOR ROOSEVELT
... time has come

Rayburn, Truman and Mrs. Roosevelt have much at stake. Rayburn is promoting Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D., Tex.) for the Democratic presidential nomination. Truman is the big gun behind Sen. Stuart Symington (D., Mo.). Mrs. Roosevelt is on record—several times—that Kennedy will not do for president. Her choice is probably Adlai Stevenson, or even Humphrey.

HARRY TRUMAN
... for old pros

Kennedy picked up powerful momentum in Wisconsin. He is the front runner now on better evidence than mere polls or the judgment of political observers.

What happens if Kennedy is not stopped? He will go on to be nominated. So, the old pros must gang up now and stop him if there is to be a chance for the nomination of their favorites, Symington, Johnson or Stevenson.

Kennedy won the Wisconsin popular vote by a fat margin and took at least six of the state's 10 congressional district contests. His popular vote and six district victories earned Kennedy 20 out of 30 delegate votes at the July Democratic national convention.

Observers felt that Kennedy should be counted the victor if he won the popular vote and took six congressional districts, at least one of which was agricultural. He did just that.

Humphrey made a big issue of farm relief and Kennedy's uncertain record on it. The young man from Massachusetts needed to win at least one farm district here to show that midwestern farmers were not bitterly opposed to him. Kennedy's strength came largely from areas which have large Roman Catholic populations.

There were indications that Catholics rallied strongly to Kennedy's support. Calumet County, for example, is rated 55 per cent Republican and 39 per cent Catholic. Final Calumet returns gave Kennedy 2,760 votes, Humphrey 1,011 votes.

SAM RAYBURN
... to take lead

Vice-President Richard Nixon, unopposed in the Republican primary, did not much better than Humphrey with only 1,654 votes.

These men are doing the everyday jobs around the house or cottage that you might do yourself—and they are getting themselves and their clothing dirty. Greasy dirt from a motor... fine penetrating dust brushed off screens... and all types of dirt in between—these McGregor clothes are really dirty.

It's exactly 60 minutes later. That's all the time it takes to wash and dry all the clothes you see the men wearing—except, of course, for their shoes. The MULTI-SPEED WASHING ACTION of the Westinghouse Laundromat gets every item thoroughly clean. The Westinghouse Dryer, with exclusive DIRECT AIR FLOW dries all fabrics—even synthetics—quickly and safely. Clothes removed from a Westinghouse Dryer don't even need a warm iron—unless you're specially fussy! See both the Laundromat and the Dryer demonstrated at your Westinghouse Dealer's.

Cougars Win in Los Angeles; Extend Hot Playoff Streak

Pelletier Holds Fort

Vancouver right-winger Sandy Hucul fires an unsuccessful shot at Victoria goalie Marcel Pelletier in first-period action of last night's WHL playoff game in Los Angeles Sports Arena. Cougar Arlo Goodwin (10) races over too late to check Hucul while Colar, defenceman Pete Wright holds back Canucks' Gordie Vejpava. Cougars won 4-2 to take 2-0 lead in best-of-nine final. — (AP Photofax.)

LOS ANGELES (Special) — Victoria Cougars had 5,000 Los Angeles hockey fans wondering why they had been taken so lightly after last night's Western Hockey League playoff game at beautiful Los Angeles Sports Arena.

Recovering after a shaky first period, the Cougars, in the words of coach Hal Laycoe, "ground it out" from there to hand Vancouver's Canucks a 4-2 setback and took a 2-0 lead in the best-of-nine final.

It was the sixth straight playoff victory for the spirited Islanders, who hadn't been taken seriously except in Victoria even after eliminating the defending-champion Seattle Totems in the minimum four games in the semi-finals.

Third game of the final will be played here tonight and then the series will shift back to Vancouver for the fourth game in the semi-finals.

Neither club was able to keep up a sustained attack in the humid arena. Temperature in Los Angeles was 84 degrees yesterday and conditions inside last night were on the warmish side.

Ice was heavy and the puck hard to control, conditions which appeared made it order for the more robust Canucks. But the Cougars seemed to have the more dash as the game neared its end and once they had taken the lead in the second period, they seldom let Canucks get organized.

Cougars struck quickly for the lead, Haworth feeding the puck to Goyer to get things started right after the opening face-off. Speedy George Ford raced in on the goal from his rightwing spot and turned Goyer's perfect pass into a goal. It came at 31 seconds.

PULLED EVEN

But the Canucks came back strongly. Firing at Marcel Pelletier at every opportunity, they finally pulled even on a power play with ex-Cougar Bruce Carmichael getting the goal.

Jack Bionda, caught trying to retaliate after being clipped behind an ear by Tony Leswick, was in the penalty box at the time.

Still carrying an edge in play, Canucks went ahead after six minutes of play in the second period, defenceman Ralph Keller getting what Laycoe disgustedly labelled "a poor goal."

Several Cougars were guilty in leaving a loose puck and Keller came up to get an ice shot past Pelletier, who seemed to be a bit off balance.

Bionda and Pete Wright, handing out some stiff checks in the rugged going, and Pelletier, having another fine game, pulled the Cougars together and they tied it up with Keller serving a penalty.

Goyer, a key man as he has been in all playoff games, got the goal when he grabbed a rebound before Hank Bassen could cover up and poked the puck in alongside the goal post.

Doug Macauley, stealing the puck from Vancouver defenceman Dale Anderson set up what proved to be the winning goal late in the second period.

BIONDA DECOY

He skated across the Vancouver blue-line with Bionda as a decoy and left the puck for Doug Anderson, who hit the inside of the post with a snappy iced shot.

Canucks just couldn't get anything sustained going against persistent marking from there, were lucky that Gordie Fashoway and Paul Masnick didn't get the puck past Bassen in the last minute.

A penalty to Art Jones early in the third period gave the Canucks a chance they were to mull as Anderson and Macauley, backed up by Bionda and Ron Matthews, defended so well Pelletier never had to handle a direct shot.

Denny Belisle came close at eight minutes, Pelletier saving the day with a great stop. Jones broke away on the play but missed the goal after pulling Bassen out.

Canucks' last chance came at 10 minutes, when Pelletier made a spectacular stop on Keller's slap-shot. Less than three minutes later, Jones got another break. He made no mistake this time, picking his spot and leaving Bassen flat-footed with a steaming shot that clinched matters.

Vancouver—Goal: Bassen; defence: Macauley, Keller, Dale Anderson, Cahan; forwards: Cyr, Lewis, Kirtchuck, Carmichael, Duke, Belisle, Biondina, Vetrone, Kilburn, Hucul.

Victoria—Goal: Pelletier; defence: Wright, Bionda, Ray, Matthews; forwards: Blackburn, Ford, Haworth, Doug Anderson, Goodwin, Fashoway, Masnick, Jones, Goyer, Masnick, Belisle, Scotty Morrison, Hines, Bill Foss, Jay Frank.

THIRD PERIOD
1. Victoria, Ford (Goyer, Hines) 13:51.
Penalty: Keller 9:38.
Final: Victoria 4, Canucks 2.
Time: 2:07.
Referee: Jones 2:07.

Victoria Cougars made the most of their opportunity to have a look around Los Angeles County yesterday. They had a look at Hollywood, toured Beverly Hills with its fabulous showplaces of homes, and had a look at Grauman's Theatre. But nothing impressed them as much as Los Angeles Arena.

"This," coach Hal Laycoe told the Colonist in a post-game telephone conversation, "is the greatest arena I have ever been in."

Opened last summer, the palatial building will give 16,000 people, all seated in theatre-type seats, an unobstructed view of the playing surface.

For hockey, the playing surface is the duplicate of that at Memorial Arena—200x85 feet.

Interior decorating is of the finest and the lighting perfect. Players on both clubs, Laycoe said, found the ice very heavy. In view of the fact that the temperature was 84 degrees yesterday afternoon, it was something that was expected.

Laycoe said his club was outplayed in the first half of the game.

PICKS THEM OFF

"They outshot us about 2 to 1," he admitted, "but many of their shots were from well out and Marcel was picking them off without trouble."

Deviating just a little from usual custom, he credited the hard-checking Pete Wright and Jack Bionda and the fired-up Marcel Pelletier for rallying his club in the second period.

"We played a bit better than we did in the first game in Vancouver," he reported, "and everyone had a hand in the win. The boys just ground this one out and we were in when we got the lead back again in the second period. You'll note we outshot them, 12-10, in the last period."

He said that his club had come through the game without any serious injury but wasn't certain whether or not the Canucks had suffered any casualties.

"Canucks played Orland Kurtenbach most of the third period and used Ray Cyr only a few times," he noted in wondering if the clever Canucks centre had suffered some injury or was only feeling the effects of the heat.

Today, the Cougars are planning a tour of Disneyland early in the day but, Laycoe added, "there won't be any make believe when we hit the ice tonight. We intend to come back 3-0 if we can."

Rockets Win Game; Labatts Lose Furlan

NANAIMO — Lacombe Rockets, refusing to be counted out in the western Canada intermediate hockey semi-finals, scored a 3-2 victory in overtime over Nainimo Labatts here last night to even the best-of-five series at two games each.

Deciding game will be played here tonight starting at 8:30.

Labatts, however, lost more than the game. Their ace defenceman, Bruno Furlan, collided with a Lacombe player early in the third period and suffered a shoulder injury of undetermined seriousness. It wasn't known at press time whether the shoulder was broken or dislocated but he definitely won't play tonight.

Heroes of the piece for the Rockets were Ed Young and goaltender Murray Dodd. Young scored two goals, including the winner at 8:25 of overtime and Dodd turned back several tough drives as his club was out-shot 40-23.

Stan Berry put Nainimo ahead in the first period but Young tied the game in the second. Earl Robertson then sent Nainimo ahead 2-1 before the period ended.

Lacombe's Remi Brisson tied the game when Labatts were short-handed in the second minute of the third period and the stage was set for the overtime winner.

Smoke Eaters Win Again

TRAIL, B.C. (CP) — Trail Smoke Eaters grabbed a 4-1 victory over loose-playing Port Arthur squad here Wednesday night to take a 2-0 lead in the best-of-seven Western Allan Cup hockey final.

Third game in the series will be played here Friday with the series winner advancing to the Allan Cup final.

Hal Jones, recruited from Rossland Warriors of the Western International League for the playoffs, Laurie Bursaw, Norm Lanardon and Frank Turk shared the Smoke Eaters scoring.

Captain Peter Johnson scored late in the first period for Port Arthur, the Lakhead team's first and only goal of the series.

Port Arthur—Goal: Kilger; defence: Eade, Cava, Antonian, Bursaw, Bryon; forwards: Irving, Bursaw, Branch, Harris, Carpenter, Olson, Johnson, Arnold, Wilkie.

Four Americans, Canadians Left in Golf Crown Hunt

Four Americans, including medalist Tom Williams of Astoria and defending champion Ernie Ketcham of Seattle, and four Canadians yesterday reached the quarter-finals of the men's championship flight in the annual Empress Golf Tournament.

Williams bested Bill Munro of Victoria, 2 and 1, to reach the round of eight while Ketcham took out Dr. C. W. Coffin of Portland by the same count.

Pross Clark, a five-handicap from Portland, and M. McGlashan of Bellevue, who plays to a 12 handicap, were the other U.S. golfers to move ahead.

Leading the Canadians are two former Willingdon Cup players from Calgary—Mike Pyke, who has a three handicap, and John Poyen, who plays to a four.

Pyke got by a tough competitor when he ousted Lee Stiel of Seattle, 4 and 3. Poyen took a 2-up decision from F. E. King of Calgary.

D. J. Fosbrooke was the only one of the five Victorians who started play yesterday to win. He measured Jim Barry of Victoria, 3 and 2, J. F. Fidler was defeated by Clark and Munro by Williams.

Eighth quarter-finalist is J. O. Galloway of Calgary, who took Keith Olson of Victoria to the sidelines, 5 and 3.

Today's draw:

Playoffs Easy for Plante

MONTREAL (CP)—Goalie Jacques Plante, who has put the clutch on the prized Vezina Trophy for an unprecedented run of five straight seasons, said Wednesday he is less tense than he is during the game-by-game grind of the regular season.

The sad-faced netminder of Montreal Canadiens, donning

Victoria and District Golf Association's junior development program begins with instruction for city high school students next Monday at five local courses.

There are nine classes of boys, seven of girls and one mixed class, out at Colwood.

Other courses co-operating in the undertaking that has included more than 500 students, are Victoria, Gorge Vale, Cedar Hill and Uplands.

Windup tournament will be played at Gorge Vale May 20 and will be sponsored by Hudson's Bay Company.

semi-final, we'll score more goals than the Wings did." The Wings succumbed to the Leafs four games to two. Blake said he plans to use his four forward lines in tonight's game, but doesn't know yet whether he will rotate all lines regularly throughout the game or what he will do in subsequent games.

Blake also said the club is as physically fit as any he has had since taking over Canadiens at the start of the 1955-56 season. The team is shooting for its fifth straight-cup victory.

Only centre Jean Beliveau's groin injury is giving Blake concern over his players' condition. Doug Harvey and Marcel Bonin have less serious injuries. Beliveau still suffers muscular pains when exerting himself.

Opening game of the Stanley Cup final will be televised tonight starting at 5:30 p.m. Victoria time. It can be seen on Channels 2 and 6, Radio broadcast, over CBU, starts at the same time.

Looking well rested and disclaiming any feeling of jitters, Plante explained his peace of mind this way:

"In the playoffs all we have to do is get one more goal than the other team and we win the game, no matter if they get half a dozen.

"During the season we may win a game 6-1 but it may be that one goal against me that could beat me for the Vezina Trophy. I'm really more relaxed for the playoffs.

"There's also the different style of play by both teams in the playoffs. It's tighter, with more attention to defensive play."

"Assured of his complete calm, Plante ventured serenely out on a limb.

"If—and remember I said if—we play against Toronto as we did against Chicago Black Hawks, we will beat Toronto also in four straight."

Canadiens not only walloped the Hawks' four straight but Plante scored shutouts in the two games in Chicago.

Far from doing any limbering, coach Toe Blake nevertheless came precariously close to exuding confidence.

"If we get as many scoring chances against the Leafs as Detroit Red Wings got in the WILMINGTON, Del.—Baroness Kathleen Anne Panomela Rothschild de Koenigswarter, 46, a member of the Rothschild banking family, has been convicted of possessing narcotics in a motel here in 1958, and will be sentenced later.

Charges against famed jazz pianist Thelonious Monk, 39, arrested with her, were dropped.

LONDON — Businessman Jeremy Fry, 35, announced that on his doctor's advice he will be unable to act as best man at the wedding of Princess Margaret. He has jaundice.

NEW YORK — Janet Frank, 26, widow of heavily-insured Julian Frank, who may have caused a plane wreck with a bomb, has had to return to work as a $40-an-hour fashion model because she can't collect the insurance.

HIROSHIMA — Hiroko Kajiyama, 16, died of leukemia which doctors said was caused by the atomic bomb dropped on this city 15 years ago. She was in good health until she complained of a dizzy spell last month.

MONTREAL — Mayor Gerard Payer of nearby St. Hubert is charged with conspiracy, theft and fraud in 11 sales of municipally owned land in 1955 and 1956. So is his brother, Raymond, the town's secretary-treasurer.

ROCHESTER, France — Unemployed laborer Albert Derets, 31, tried to pick up a few francs by betting another customer in a local bar he could down an entire quart of Kirsh, a powerful liqueur made from cherries. He lost the bet and his life — after drinking three-quarters of the bottle.

SEATTLE — Mrs. Ames Kerr and Mrs. Donald Schmitt, 21, twin sisters, gave birth to their second children only hours apart.

PITTSBURGH — Albert "Pop-eye" Thomas got into trouble when he popped his socks into the laundromat. He was wearing them, and the rest of him went in, too. Police pulled him out, and Thomas was jailed as drunk and disorderly.

VATICAN CITY — Pope John asked all Catholics to prepare spiritually for the Easter holiday because "we are on earth with a precise responsibility. In order to earn the kingdom of God and not in order to play."

COLWALL, England — Christopher John Holland-Martin, brother-in-law of Prime Minister Macmillan and a Tory MP, died at 49.

TORONTO — Retired carpenter Ovid Lafreniere, 70, rescued a boy from quicksand-like mud in a vacant lot. Michael Weber, 4, was into the mud "almost up to his chest."

PARIS — Brigitte Bardot spurned rumors of a marital rift when she dropped out of sight in Switzerland while husband Jacques Charrier visited the Riviera.

Unfriendly Allies Mellow at Reunion

LONDON (AP)—Those unfriendly wartime allies—Sir Winston Churchill and Gen. Charles de Gaulle—talked and laughed together Wednesday night in the mellowing twilight of advancing years.

They met at dusk for a half-hour in the library of Churchill's London home before a wood fire while a chilly spring rain drenched the city.

And after that Churchill, 83, was a guest of the 69-year-old French president at a dinner for the Queen and Prince Philip at the French embassy.

For de Gaulle and his wife it was another triumphant day, full of acclaim, sentiment, emotion and the colorful pageantry that makes state visits come alive in Britain.

De Gaulle went back to the little London square outside who formed his Free French his old wartime headquarters forces back in the seemingly and met with some of the men hopeless 1940s.

Summit Issues Discussed By de Gaulle, Macmillan

LONDON (CP)—Charles de Gaulle, after charming Britons in the first hectic day of his visit here, wound up his pre-summit talks with Prime Minister Macmillan Wednesday.

The French chief of state met Macmillan during the morning and talked over with him various world issues expected to arise at the Big Four summit conference opening in Paris May 16.

His talks with Macmillan took place in the presence of the French and British foreign ministers, Maurice Couve de Murville and Selwyn Lloyd, in dicating that some detailed diplomatic work was conducted.

Meanwhile, a small group of demonstrators demanding

"Ban the bomb" greeted the president's wife as she drove into the grounds of a children's hospital at Carshalton, south of London.

"And now you can see how we were wise and what we did had to be done," de Gaulle told about 500 veterans who helped him raise a fallen France back to glory. They shouted "Bravo de Gaulle" and "Vive le Patron."

But the high spot of a long day must have been de Gaulle's private visit to Churchill's home, a 2½-storey brick house on a quiet, dead-end street.

The two old comrades, who had so many wartime spats, shook hands. De Gaulle flashed a big smile. Churchill fairly beamed.

"CAR OF THE YEAR"

corvair BY CHEVROLET

"Four-wheel independent suspension" ... "air-cooled aluminum engine" ... a rear-mounted transaxle "allowing a flatter floor and lower roofline" ... These are some of the praises heaped upon Corvair by the editors of Motor Trend—the world's largest general automotive magazine—in announcing their coveted Car-of-the-Year award. But, unless you've driven a Corvair, you can't appreciate what this engineering achievement means in combining small car economy and agility with big car ride and room. Drop down to your Chevrolet dealer's, take a trial drive and judge the Car of the Year for yourself.

LOOK AT ALL THE THINGS CORVAIR GIVES YOU THAT OTHER CARS CAN'T!

Practically flat floor ... front and rear. Room for your feet, even if you are sitting in the middle. Who but Corvair remembers your feet?

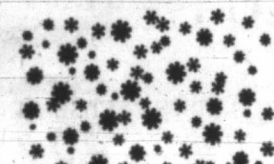

Fold-down rear seat ... that opens 17.6 cubic feet of storage space besides what's in the trunk. Standard in every model, two- and four-door.

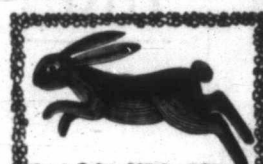

Almost instant heat ... from an airplane-type heater. You don't have to wait for the engine to warm up — Corvair's heater warms in 30 seconds.

4-wheel independent suspension ... that gives each wheel its own coil spring and its own knee action. RESULT: a smoother, flatter ride.

No fussing with antifreeze ... or water or radiator repairs or water pumps. Corvair's air-cooled engine has nothing to do with 'em.

Rear-engine traction ... that comes with the engine's weight bearing down on the rear wheels. Why be a stick in the mud (or snow or slush) with anything else when you can dig in and go with Corvair?

Death to Maggots!

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

MAGGOTS IN NARCISSUS (S.K. Honeymoon Bay)—The maggots you found in the daffodil bulbs which didn't come up are the larvae of the Narcissus Bulb Fly, a very common and persistent pest here—so common, indeed, that I wouldn't dream of planting out any bulbs without adding a light powdering of Bulb Dust to the planting hole and a little more to the surface soil.

Chances are the rest of your daffs will also be infested to some degree. As a stop-gap, I suggest that you drench the soil with one of the liquid preparations recommended for lawn pests, such as Green Cross Ant & Grub Killer or Laiter's Lawn Insect Spray. After the foliage dies down in midsummer, lift your bulbs and discard any which feel soft to the touch, destroying them by fire. Soak the remainder in a weak solution of one of these lawn preparations, two table-spoonfuls per gallon of water, for two hours, then dry and store for fall planting.

WEEDY SOIL (F.B.G., Victoria)—If the topsoil you are about to bring in for your lawn is infested, as you say, with couch grass and horsetail, I suggest that you put it all through a quarter-inch sieve before using. This will remove the worst of the roots and, while some plants may spring up from couch grass seeds or horsetail spores, they are quite easy to control while in the seedling stage.

In any case, there is no practicable means of disinfecting such a large quantity of soil so late in the season. Any chemical treatment would render the soil useless for a considerable time.

CATERPILLAR TROUBLES (F.L.S., Victoria)—Black Leaf 40 is very good for controlling aphids on roses, providing it is used when the weather is warm enough to vaporize the fluid, but it isn't very effective against those little green "loopers" which come in from the oak trees. Use 50 per cent wettable DDT for these, applied either as a spray or as a dust.

Pest control is really a lot simpler if you use one of the modern combination sprays or dusts. There are many of these on the market now, and they work on the buckshot principle—if one ingredient doesn't get your particular pest, another one is in there which will do the trick. Most of these all-purpose sprays and sprays contain a fungicide, too, for preventing rust, mildew and other plant diseases.

Regarding the pheasants which are scratching up your pea seeds and which eat the matured pea crop, I'm afraid I don't know of any effective deterrent. Discarded fish nets are available at reasonable prices, and this is about the only solution I can offer.

ANAEMIC RHODODENDRON (F.M.A., Ganges)—The yellow tinge in the leaves of your rhododendron is caused by a lack of iron in its system—a form of anaemia called chlorosis—and this in turn was brought about by too much lime in the soil, which locked up the iron and rendered it unavailable to the plant.

I don't think you did the shrub any good by dosing it with all those chemicals. When this condition arises, it is best to suspend feeding and give only an iron tonic, sold under such names as Sequestrene, Tru-Green Iron Chelates and Versenol, applied both to the roots and in a weak solution to the leaves as a spray. Mulch the soil surface heavily with rotted leaves and maintain the mulch permanently with an annual topping-up of more leaves. If your soil has much broken seashell in it, you may have to grow your rhododendrons in raised beds.

The pruning shears and secateurs manufactured by the Wilkinson Sword Co. are available from the Hickman-Tye Hardware Co. of Victoria and their dealers.

'My Name Is Mark Bragg—I'm Dead'

Ripsnorting Extermination

"My name is Mark Bragg. I'm dead. Ninety-two per cent of the world's population is dead. I was one of the first. I was lucky." You were, chum. Because then you missed all the drama and books on the subject of our extermination. I just finished "Level 7," a novel about life in the atomic catacombs where a push-button war is conducted. Everyone got wiped out, including the button-pushers. Before that I read Nevil Shute's "On the Beach." Same thing. To the last man.

Now comes "Alas, Babylon" by Pat Frank, which was dramatized for Playhouse 90 by David Shaw. The above grim comedy opens the show. Getting very popular among writers to exterminate the human race. It's a fad. It'll pass and the writers will go on to other enthusiasms. Proletarian novels about the life in the next world. "Angels unite. You have nothing to lose but your feathers!" Cute stories about life in the ruins where boy meets girl and they have happy endings.

But that comes later. Now we're in the extermination phase. And, it's grim, brother, grim. My favorite line in this is when the heroine comes back from the window and says: "My God, they got Orlando!" I can remember way back—well, it wasn't that long ago—when the line read: "My God, they got George!" Now they get whole cities.

"My God, they got Chicago!" exclaimed Heloise. (You can have that line. I've decided to give up creative writing.)

As extermination fiction goes, "Alas, Babylon" is a ripsnorter. The narrative moved like lightning from uneasy peace to total disaster with a sure-footed mounting excitement that had me breathless. The transitions—either the work of adapter Shaw or of the director Robert Stevens—were particularly dramatic. In one of them, for example, the action shifted suddenly, explosively from a character quoting the "Alas, Babylon" passage from the Bible to jet bombers streaking through the sky; in another from the drunken hero at a supermarket to the quiet orderliness of the underground "push button" headquarters, the ultimate expression of "man's genius or his folly."

Pat Frank is very good at apocalyptic fiction (and it's getting to be a genre like the ashcan school). In the beginning his hero has just lost his wife. He drinks and chases girls. In the end, he doesn't drink so much and he wants to be a good husband. (Ninety-two per cent of the world population has died in order to teach him to stay home nights. You think, Mannie, it's maybe dramatically conv-

The narrator is a dead man and this device is piquant, to say the least. Lines like: "These were the last words I ever heard." (Swiftly followed by a black screen and a commercial.) Mr. Frank is not at all sentimental about life in a ruined society. His townspeople—hanging sullenly about the empty supermarket exchanging vicious rumors—act like spoiled apes. They're selfish and empty and, in some cases, vicious.

Kim Hunter played the part of a hysterical mother and the worst thing I can say is that she does it well. The role of women in end-of-the-world fiction is becoming as well-trod and clearly marked as a super-highway, but it's not a pleasant path at all, girls, and you might as well face it. The women in these things are incessantly wringing their hands and whimpering about the old days before Orlando disappeared. Women are essentially life-creating types and end-of-the-world drama doesn't sit well on them.

I've read quite a lot of this sort of fiction, starting clear back with H. G. Wells, whose end-of-the-world romps sound quaint and Victorian in the light of these rude fellows today, and one thread seems to run consistently through all of the books. It's always an accident. The country that starts the rockets firing always thinks someone else started it. First Irony lies heavy as lead over these scripts.

"Alas, Babylon" had no proper ending; it just sort of petered out into platitudes about enjoying every minute of what little life is left there. The note of irony was sounded in the final words: "Who won the war? We did. We clobbered 'em."

It was an excellent production by Peter Kertner and it had a splendid cast, including Dana Andrews, Don Murray, Barbara Rush, Everett Sloane, and Rita Moreno.

Hollywood Today

Lana Stays Close to Home

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—Lana Turner postponed her "Streets of Montmartre" movie, which would have taken her to Paris. She realizes it is more important to stay close to her 16-year-old daughter, Cheryl, now attending the state school for girls.

Jean Simmons rejected her London command performance invitation for "The Last Angry Man" on the plea, "I just can't stay awake." Those long flights are tiring.

But Kim Novak was there, all satin and sequins. And, when Prince Philip said, "Did they make you come all the way to London for this?" Kim, confused, replied: "Yes." Actually, Kim went to London to be with director Dick Quaine, there for "The World of Suzie Wong."

Bing Crosby and wife Kathy, both slim and tanned, drove to the Palm Springs Chi Chi to applaud the three boys. Bing's other boy, Gary, sat on the sidelines, saying nothing. But he took a bow.

There's talk that western stars Clint Walker, James Garner and Jack Kelly, now battling the Warner Brothers, will make a movie together in Texas, which they hope is beyond studio jurisdiction. The money is waiting, a la John Wayne's packet for "The Alamo."

The power of Frank Sinatra! He was able to get most members of the clan to go to Florida during his night-club appearance at Miami's Fontainebleau. If they hadn't gone, would they still be members of the clan?

Producer Sam Spiegel and the Columbia film executives are in a hassle over whether to give Michael Wilson screen credit for the "Lawrence of Arabia" script he is writing for Marlon Brando in Switzerland. Spiegel is for it, the studio is against. Wilson is the third writer penning scripts under various names since appearing before the un-American activities committee, to come into the open and work with his own name.

Katharine Hepburn isn't too pleased with the announcement from London that Sophia Loren will star in the movie version of "The Millionaire" with Peter Sellers. Katie was set to make the movie for the Woolf Brothers about five years ago, but the rest of the casting didn't meet with her approval at the time. The story concerns a strong-minded woman who inherits $30,000,000.

Lee J. Cobb plans to direct Tennessee Ernie Ford in "Tennessee Ernie Meets King Arthur." "It's a careless adaptation of 'A Connecticut Yankee,'" says Cobb. "Ernie whizzes to King Arthur's court, across time and space, in a time capsule."

To Catch a Thief

Scream, Tackle, Hammer Tap

MONTREAL (CP)—The Canadian Bankers' Association, usually silent about its rewards to citizens who help in the capture and conviction of bank robbers, has opened its files of true crime stories. But it will allow only a peek at the incidents surrounding payments totalling almost $560,000 in the last 35 years. No names, please. Just the bare facts.

A bulletin prepared by the association tells on one bank robbery in which 12 men and women received rewards for the capture of four robbers. It happened this way: Four men robbed a bank, three of them escaping in an automobile. As the fourth, armed and carrying the loot, tried to get away a woman rushed out of the bank and screamed there was a holdup.

A teamster tried to trip the gunman, who dropped some of the money. A bookkeeper hit the gunman on the shoulder, forcing him to drop more of the loot. A third man chased him. A fourth tried a flying tackle, missed, and landed in the mud. A fifth joined the chase. The sixth man, a carpenter, leaped over a fence and hit the fleeing gunman on the head with a hammer, causing him to drop the rest of the money.

A taxi driver forced the thief to drop his gun. An eighth man whacked him with a shovel. A ninth man spotted the car with the three other bandits. A street car motorman threw his iron switch bar at the car. This confused the trio and the motorman got their licence number, permitting police to make arrests later.

Meanwhile, the chase for the lootless, gunless bandit was ended quietly. An 11th man called the police. They had no difficulty arresting the suspect. He was practically out on his feet. The second woman and the 12th man in the case were able to identify the bandits.

Missiles Gain, Bomarc's Lose

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower shook up the space-age defence program yesterday to provide more Atlas missiles, speed the satellite warning system and get a head start on construction of six additional Polaris atomic submarines.

Funds for the stepped-up missile and Midex satellite projects would be provided by cutting back two systems designed solely for defence against attacking bombers. They are the controversial Bomarc and the SAGE projects.

Grandmother, Court Defied

Runaway Heiress Married at Resort

HENDERSONVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Runaway heiress Gamble Benedict and her Romanian-born fiance slipped into this western North Carolina mountain resort town late Wednesday and were married.

The couple then left for an undisclosed honeymoon spot. The marriage ceremony, performed at the lodge of Henderson County attorney Arthur J. Redden, climaxed a day that had seen Miss Benedict and Andre Porumbeanu thwarted in their efforts to wed at Dillon, S.C.

The 19-year-old heiress to the Remington typewriter fortune defied a New York court and her grandmother and guardian, Mrs. Katherine Benedict, in marrying Porumbeanu, a 35-year-old former chauffeur, now a hair dresser.

Her publicized romance with Porumbeanu, whose Mexican divorce was effective last March 15, began last summer on Long Island at clubs and beaches. In December the couple fled to Europe on a small oil tanker. But the Benedict family and lawyers followed them and brought Miss Benedict back from Paris.

DECLARED WARD

The European romance resulted in Miss Benedict being declared a ward of a New York court as a wayward minor.

The heiress and her beau turned up Tuesday in Dillon, S.C., where they applied for a marriage licence, then went into hiding during the 24-hour delay required after application. On advice from the South Carolina attorney-general, the licence was withheld but the couple did not return.

North Carolina, unlike South Carolina, has no waiting period for a marriage licence.

Told Her Gun Had Blanks And She Shot Him Dead

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A man meets a woman at a downtown bar. After a few drinks they go to his apartment to listen to hi-fi. He hands her a .45-calibre automatic and laughingly says: "Shoot me. It's got blanks in it."

A shot. He falls dead. Is the woman responsible for the death?

No, a coroner's jury ruled in the killing of Donald R. Arthurs. It exonerated Mrs. Joan Crawford Moreno as an unwitting dupe to a suicide.

Plunge Last Month Kills City Woman

Almost three weeks after the death will be held to suffering severe injuries in a day.

21-foot fall from her bedroom window. Mrs. Alice Wild, 74, of the Beacon Hill Rest Home, 635 Superior, died early yesterday at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Her condition in hospital improved for a time, then took a turn for the worse and she suffered a further setback but an inquest, but an inquiry after a later operation.

MONTREAL, April 7th—Springtime is the time for outdoors. It's also the time when burglars become most active. So let me remind you of the vital importance of renting a Safety Deposit Box at the BANK OF MONTREAL for the protection of your irreplaceables. Rather than risk keeping valuable papers and jewellery around the house, I keep them in my B of M Safety Deposit Box. . . and leave worry in there with them. So why not take a tip that can save you much grief? Rent yourself a B of M Safety Deposit Box at your neighborhood branch of "My Bank" tomorrow. Costs less than two cents a day!

IT'S SPRING-CLEANING TIME . . . a time to carry on the war against slow, sluggish drains. How? Just use GILLET'S DRAIN CLEANER in every drain . . . once a week. And I specifically recommend Gillett's Drain Cleaner . . . for I know from experience that no liquid disinfectant can budge the muck that lodges in sink and bathtub drains. You see, Gillett's Drain Cleaner has a special churning, foaming action . . . quickly and completely scours away every bit of this germ-breeding mess that collects in clogged-up drains. All you do is put 2 tablespoons of Gillett's Drain Cleaner in every drain and instantly they're fast-running, clean and sanitary.

THEY GO TOGETHER like April and showers—or May and flowers. Just try it and you'll agree that as a spread BLUE BONNET MARGARINE certainly goes with bread. Or try crackers and Blue Bonnet, toast and Blue Bonnet . . . everything tastes better with Blue Bonnet on it. Blue Bonnet has a sunny-sweet flavor because it's made from the finest ingredients . . . pure vegetable oils and pasteurized skim milk with Vitamins A and D added. You'll find Blue Bonnet is delicious on hot vegetables and excellent for all your baking, too. Get Blue Bonnet today and enjoy its good taste in dozens of your favourite dishes and at every meal!

"WHERE HAVE ALL THE CRACKERS GONE?" That's an easy question to answer when the crackers are McCormick's VERY THIN SALTINES. These new, thinner saltines are so crispy good, they just naturally do a disappearing act, so it's a good idea to keep a good supply on hand. No need to worry about their lasting freshness . . . their flavor is protected by the Flavour Guard "Inner Pack". McCormick's Saltines are inner-wrapped in individual quarter-pound sections so that they always taste just right—never, never stale—never too salty. Yes, McCormick's Saltines taste so much better than ordinary crackers, yet they cost not a penny more!

Quick Tartar Sauce
1 (8 oz.) tin Nestle's Pure Thick Cream
2 tbsp. pickle relish or finely chopped pickle
1 tsp. vinegar
1/4 tsp. salt

Turn Nestle's Pure Thick Cream into a small bowl. Add and mix in vinegar, pickle relish or chopped pickle and salt.

I'm sure you'll agree, Nestle's Pure Thick Cream is the new, easy way to have fine quality cream on hand whenever you need it.

"I JUST WANT TO TELL YOU of the great benefit I have had from using a single package of TEMPLETON'S T-R-C's for the relief of a dull, wearisome back-ache which had troubled me for some time. I was astonished to see how quickly and effectively T-R-C's gave me almost immediate relief from my suffering." This grateful letter from a lady in Saint John, New Brunswick, is just one of the many heartfelt testimonials to the effectiveness of T-R-C's in relieving the pain, not only of back-ache and lumbago, but also the long, drawn-out agony of arthritis, neuritic, sciatic or rheumatic pain. If you are troubled yourself—or know of anyone who is—do try Templeton's T-R-C's.

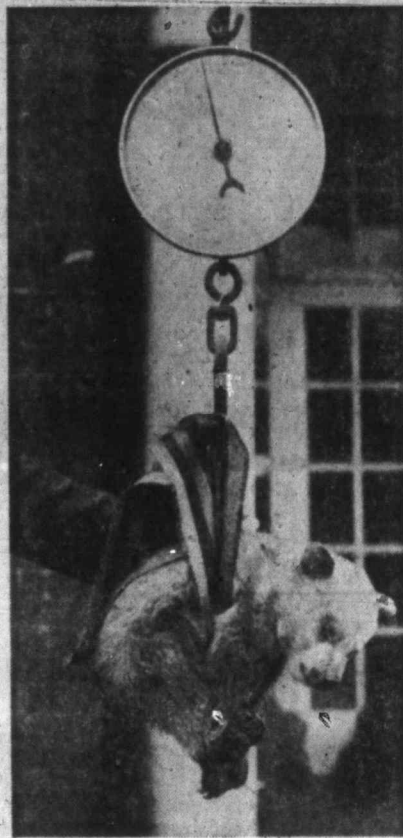

YOU CAN TELL JUST BY LOOKING at your dog's sleek coat and bright eyes that he's getting the kind of nourishment he needs from Dr. Ballard's BURGERBITS. Yes, Burgerbits, the full-course meal with dog appeal, actually beats meat for nourishment, has in fact twice the food value of prime beef, at just half the cost! Nineteen scientifically selected ingredients are blended into solid, crunchy Burgerbits chunks that never go mushy or stick to the pan. Already appetized with rich pan drippings, your dog will truly relish every bite of his health-giving Burgerbits meal! Get Burgerbits and give your dog twice the food value of prime beef—at half the cost!

TIME TO THINK ABOUT SPRING GARDENING . . . a rewarding, delightful hobby—but so hard on the hands. Yet it's easy to keep your hands always soft and lovely with HINDS HONEY ALMOND CREAM. Hinds Cream, with hexachlorophene and precious lanolin, gives your hands lasting, year-round protection, simply smooth it on after any hand-roughening chore for truly soft, petal-soft hands. Take my tip . . . just as soon as you come in from gardening, or after doing dishes, or your laundry, always smooth on fragrant Hinds Honey & Almond Cream. It's the finest, hand-care you can buy for complete protection from hard-on-the-hands chores.

OVER-SLEPT AGAIN? No matter, dear lady, for you can whip up bowls of piping hot RED RIVER CEREAL for your dear ones in the wink of an eye. Cooks in a few minutes—and it's oh so good. You'll find everyone loves Red River's whole-some blend of cracked wheat, rye and flax, with that tantalizing, nutty flavor. Red River provides extra energy values to youngsters and active workers—and guards regularity for older people. That's why I say, so confidently, that Red River is good for everyone . . . young, old or middle-aged. Delicious Red River costs so little and gives you so much in flavor and nutrition!

IF YOU FIND YOURSELF under stress and strain during the day . . . if you are not sleeping as well as you should, then I sincerely recommend you take PERSONNIA, a nerve sedative and sleep-aid which has been used by millions all over the world for the last twenty years. Personnia will induce sound restful sleep from which you will awaken rested and refreshed without after effects or morning drowsiness and will also relieve your tension during the day. For a "good night and a good morning" I urge you to get safe, effective Personnia from your druggist, immediately, for only $1.00.

PLANNING AN APRIL SHOWER FOR A JUNE BRIDE? . . . You'll want the refreshments you serve to be as lively and fresh-tasting as a breath of Spring. So here's my tip . . . MIRACLE WHIP. Light and lively Miracle Whip is the good taste in all the best-tasting salads and sandwich fillings! You see, its flavour is unique in that it enhances other good flavours—without overwhelming them. And Miracle Whip is always as fresh as an April shower! That's because it's so popular, it never grows stale on your grocer's shelves. Yes, Miracle Whip is fresh when you buy it . . . and the best way to buy it is in the big, economical 32-ounce jar!

Store-Sitdown Solution Fails

By UPI

Negro leaders and merchants in Nashville, Tenn., met yesterday to consider a proposal that downtown stores integrate portions of their lunch counters and serve Negroes for a trial of 90 days. A seven-member biracial committee made the recommendation in an effort to halt protests which have resulted in 150 arrests.

NOT ENOUGH

But Luther Harris, a sit-down leader, said there was a "definite feeling of disappointment" among students that the recommendation didn't go far enough.

"The Negro is tired of token integration," he said.

OTHERS FAIL

Similar efforts to reach a solution have been rejected in other cities.

A biracial committee at High Point, N.C., recommended a 60-day trial period of integration at lunch counters but merchants refused to go along.

SAME REASON

A one-month trial period recommended at Chapel Hill, N.C., was rejected for the same reason.

In Greensboro, N.C., too, store managers rejected partial integration.

Atlanta Mayor William Hartsfield said proposals to appoint a biracial committee in the Georgia capital "would do no good down here where we do not agree on the basic principles of the problem."

He said such committees were "just a face-saving gesture by people new to the subject."

Recluse's Jewels Sold for Million

NEW YORK (UPI)—Jewelry that had been collected by an aged widow who died a recluse amidst litter in her 24-room Fifth Avenue home was sold at auction yesterday for more than $1,000,000 for charity.

A spokesman for Parke-Bernet auction gallery said the total sale of $1,035,460 was believed the second highest ever recorded at an auction.

FOUR HOURS
Necklaces, bracelets, rings and clips comprising the 156-item collection of Mrs. William Timken were sold in less than four hours.

Mrs. Timken was the widow of William Timken, co-founder of the Timken Roller Bearing Co. of Canton, Ohio. After her husband died in 1949, Mrs. Timken rarely ventured out. She was found dead of natural causes last October amid a litter of old newspapers, cartons and dust.

A large emerald-cut diamond ring, weighing about 28.75 carats, brought the top price of $157,000 at the auction. It was purchased by a New York dealer.

RED CROSS
Mrs. Timken provided in her will that the proceeds of the sale be distributed equally among the U.S. Red Cross, the Boy Scouts of America, and three local welfare groups.

Mrs. Timken had placed her jewels and cheap costume jewelry in a bank vault after her husband's death. She occasionally went there to rearrange them, wrapping them in odd bits of paper.

The widow kept a valuable collection of sculptures and paintings, masterpieces of the Dutch and Flemish renaissance school, in her home.

She bequeathed them to the Metropolitan Museum here and the National Gallery in Washington.

Residents of Sooke and Jordan River will have dial telephones starting in October, the B.C. Telephone Company announced yesterday.

The present Sooke exchange, which switches to automatic phones at that time, will be extended to include Jordan River, giving residents there dial service to Sooke.

Jordan River residents will then pay a regular monthly exchange service rate in place of the present charge for each call. They will also be able to place calls to Victoria by dialing the operator at Sooke.

Equipment for the two new circuits, modifying equipment and cables to Jordan River, will cost about $5,000. Two additional circuits between Sooke and Victoria will also be installed in time for the conversion to dial telephones.

A new $11,000 central office building has been constructed at Sooke to house the automatic equipment for the new exchange, which will include more than 600 telephones.

Father on Drinking Bout As Fire Kills Children

CHICAGO (AP)—Three children, left alone when their father went on a drinking bout, suffocated Wednesday in a fire which broke out in their apartment. Firemen found two of the youngsters clutching nursing bottles to their mouths.

Authorities quoted the father—Enrique Soto, 23—as saying he gave each of the children a bottle of milk about noon and then went drinking wine with a friend. The mother was at work.

Ex-Cadet Confesses Royal Roads Thefts

A former Royal Roads officer cadet brought here all the way from Nova Scotia under RCMP escort was given suspended sentence in Colwood police court yesterday on three charges of theft.

Middleton, N.S., was required by Magistrate A. I. Thomas to post a one-year bond for $500—slightly less than it cost to bring him back here.

Crouse pleaded guilty to two charges of theft over $50 involving radios, and a third involving drawing instruments worth less than $50. Crouse took the articles from fellow cadets last December.

50 Years in Business Here

Grand Old Man Feted

By HARRY YOUNG Colonist Business Editor

Victoria has its full quota of grand old men in the real estate and insurance business. At least three of them have served over 50 years and are still active.

One was in the news last night, E. E. Heath, and his wife, were entertained by relatives, business associates and friends to a dinner in the Empress Hotel, to mark Mr. Heath's 50th anniversary in the real estate business in the city.

Mr. Heath founded his firm in 1910 and has been in his present office on Yates Street for the past 41 years. He has been a public notary for 44 years and, for the past 24 years, has been a member of the B.C. government zoning board of appeal.

Mr. Heath now in his 80th year, says he is "feeling great." He is a native of Sparrow, Ont.

THIRD IN LINE
Mr. Heath, however, is only third in length of association with the local real estate business.

Tom Mills has been in the real estate and insurance business with Swinterton's for 64 years, joining that firm as a junior in 1897.

Another old timer in the business is Bob Shanks, of B.C. Land and Investment Co. Now president of the old established firm on Government Street, Mr. Shanks has been with the company for 55 years.

Grain Market

WINNIPEG (CP) — Considerable activity in the grain market appeared with overseas interests and international accounts on the buying side.

Oats and barley had an easier time.

Rye trade was also easier in a light and commission house business.

Overnight export loadings of Canadian wheat included 190,000 bushels to the United Kingdom and 80,000 to Portuguese East Africa.

CHICAGO (AP) — Considerations in the grain futures market were mixed and prices ranged out both ways from previous closes in light trading.

Helicopter's spray dooms Ambrosia beetles.

Boom-Bombers Battling Beetles

COWICHAN LAKE—Tiny Ambrosia beetles are in for a big surprise this year when they come out looking for lush, winter-cut logs to use for their homes.

The 40,000,000 board feet of logs neatly tied in booms that have been the traditional birth of their young has now been sprayed by a helicopter.

After hibernating through the winter, the beetles will sleepily stagger from their beds in the "duff" and rudely awaken to the fact that alienists have beaten them.

A solution of benzadine hexachloride, that does not mix with water, has been proven "completely effective, safe to fish and fast," Hector Richmond, entomologist for the pest control committee of the B.C. Loggers' Association, explained yesterday.

For the first time in B.C. the method of spraying by helicopter and the new chemical have been used. Spraying was done on logs cut early last winter.

It is expected to save the forest industry millions of dollars that have always been lost by the pest ruining top-grade lumber by filling them with "worm" holes.

Mr. Richmond said that spraying was done earlier this week on Crown Zellerbach and B.C. Forest Products logs. Yesterday the operation was completed on Western Forest Industries booms.

Fish in tanks hung from booms at depths ranging from six inches to six feet showed no ill-effects from the spray when checked 48 hours after spraying.

Mr. Richmond jubilantly said that besides being so effective against the "pest" without injuring fish, the cost to lumber companies is cheaper because the helicopter gives off an "atomized" spray.

Less chemical is used—10 gallons per acre of felled logs—and less manpower as well as time is taken.

"We are interested in the preservation of logs that have been cut and will be kept during the spring and sometimes during the summer in water before being cut," he said. "But, we are just as interested in making sure the spray is non-toxic to fish."

The tests here were done with the aid of the federal fisheries department.

And no more will the male and female beetles get together and bore into the logs to their home with several galleries in which they lay their eggs.

They'll have to make their home in logs that are far less expensive or die when they come in contact with the insecticide.

Police Admit Error In Go-Cart Arrest

TORONTO (UPI)—Magistrate C. O. Bick, chairman of the metropolitan board of police commissioners, admitted last night that police may have erred in picking up a nine-year-old go-cart driver on Sunday.

The boy, James Oliver, was found riding his motorized cart in a Leaside school yard. Police took him and his racer to the East York-Leaside district police station and questioned him for an hour without informing his parents.

Mrs. Peter Oliver said police indicated a charge would be laid against her and her son, but later police said no summonses would be issued.

Magistrate Bick asked police chief James MacKay for a full report on the action of the officers in taking the boy to the station.

The go-cart is of the type advertised in sports magazines and is very dangerous, Bick said, and not recognized as a vehicle under the Highway Traffic Act.

"They are illegal and a menace to car drivers as well as pedestrians," Bick added.

His Trouble Was Double

MANITOU SPRINGS, Colo. (UPI)—Colorado Springs city councilman Melvin Olsen, arrested here for driving on the wrong side of the street, had more trouble when he reached into his pockets: to pay $25 bond.

Olsen had only $24.94. He sat in jail for an hour until a friend showed up with six cents to bail him out.

Probe Set

TORONTO (UPI)—A probe will be held this summer into drug prices in Ontario, Premier Leslie Frost disclosed Wednesday.

Radiation Fear Stops Miners

ST. LAWRENCE, Nfld. (CP)—Recruits were being hired here Wednesday to replace about 30 experienced fluor spar miners who refused to return underground because of radiation hazards.

Newfoundland Fluorspar Ltd. officials said 65 others went back following installation of a ventilation system.

Men Fail to Return From Remote Area

Two Victoria men who left home at 9 a.m. yesterday on a fishing trip to the Jordan River headwaters became the object of a preliminary RCMP search when they failed to return home last night.

Ray Mitchell, 1240 Maywood, and William Boothroyd, 1326 Coventry, both naval firemen, were expected to return home

Use the Naran Plan to Lose Ugly Fat

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Four grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take this into a pint bottle and add enough two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloated disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

Commuting Addicts Sentenced

High Cost of 'Fixes' Lower in Vancouver

NANAIMO—Two Victoria drug addicts testified yesterday that they went to Vancouver for their "fixes" March 16 because heroin caps are cheaper on the mainland than they are on Victoria's illegal drug market.

The pair, Michael David Errett, 24, and Douglas Edward Carlson, 24, both received jail sentences here yesterday.

They were apprehended by RCMP while leaving a ferry at Nanaimo.

Errett drew a five-year penitentiary term for trafficking and a two-year concurrent term for possession. Carlson was sent to Oakalla for 18 months for possession.

Errett had 48 caps of heroin on his person when arrested. Both said they had no intentions of trafficking. They were "users," they said, and had bought the drugs in Vancouver because they cost less than in Victoria.

Super-Tanker in Drydock Here

Easy Does It with Giant Ship

Big ship handling requires sure team work.

Five tugs yesterday eased the 67,000-ton super-tanker Princess Sophie into the government graving dock at Esquimalt.

Island Tug and Barge, which handled the job, makes use of a portable radio hook-up to facilitate teamwork between the pilot on the bridge and tugboat skippers.

For the rest, easy does it. The giant tanker, owned by Niarchos of London under Greek registry, entered drydock for overhaul and refit by Yarrows Ltd. shipyards. It is the first super-tanker "shave and haircut" job of the year for the local yard.

In the confined waters of Esquimalt harbor, Princess Sophie was nudged into her berth for the next few days by tugs Island Navigator, Island Booster, Island Rover, Island Comet and Swell.

Hands Off Mower Till Blades Stop

When you're tempted to adjust a power mower in use—wait until those blades stop turning.

This warning was issued yesterday by Dr. J. L. Murray Anderson, medical administrator at Royal Jubilee Hospital, where in the past week emergency treatment was given in four cases for gashed hands and fingers.

Six Routes This Year

Ferries Girding For Big Summer

Ferry services to Vancouver Island are gearing for a record tourist season.

For the first time, this summer, there will be a choice of six sea routes to the Island.

For ferry operators whose predictions at this stage range from "heavy" to "extremely heavy" travel, there is an unknown quantity—competition from the B.C. government ferries.

The government has announced it will operate two ships between Swartz Bay and Tsawwassen early in June, with sailings at two-hour intervals during a 16-hour day.

MAY CUT IN

A spokesman for one of the established ferry companies openly expressed fears that competition from the new mainland ferry route might cut deeply into their business.

Another newcomer, Black Ball Transport Inc., will operate four daily trips between Victoria and Port Angeles when it begins summer schedule operations June 12.

TRIANGLE RESUMES

A CPR spokesman announced the company will resume its triangle run between Vancouver, Victoria, and Seattle, starting May 20 and continuing until Sept. 24.

Ferries will leave Vancouver at 11:15 a.m., arriving in Victoria at 3:30 p.m. and sailing for Seattle at 6 p.m.

On the return journey, ships leave Seattle at 8 a.m., arriving here at 12:50 p.m. and departing for Vancouver at 2:10 p.m.

MORE TRIPS

CPR boats on the Vancouver-Nanaimo run will be increased to nine round trips daily starting May 20.

Washington State Ferries announced it will start with two daily round trips between Sidney and Anacortes May 20, increasing this service to four trips a day June 10 to Sept. 6.

Black Ball ferries, operating between Nanaimo and Horseshoe Bay on the mainland, began operating its full summer schedule April 1. There are sailings in both directions every two hours from 6 a.m. to midnight.

Local Club Active

Nudist Convention On Island in June

The Western Canada convention of the Canadian Sunbathing Association will be held at Hogg Lake, near Shawnigan, June 24 to 26.

Some 300 nudist delegates attended the CSA convention here three years ago. This year's convention will be held again on the Sol Sante Club's 170-acre property.

Walter J. Hannam, 22 Midwood, veteran member of the Sol Sante Club, said last night members are already enjoying fine spring weather at the club—swimming, fishing and playing volleyball, badminton and horseshoes on outdoor courts.

A number of tourists from United States and Canadian nudist groups are expected to visit the club's property for their holidays this year, he said.

Family Court Report Today

Intermunicipal steering committee on establishment of a family and juvenile court will meet today to hear sub-committee's report on anticipated cost of the court.

Ald. Mrs. Lily Wilson said yesterday the sub-committee had obtained, from the attorney-general's department, firm information on the cost.

Or a Little of Each

City Faces Hard Cuts Or Boost in Tax Rate

Council Brows Furrow As Budget Time Nears

By R. O. MARRION

It's a brow-furrowing time of year for Victoria's mayor and aldermen.

In what's left of April, before the 1960 budget is considered, they have difficult decisions to make.

● They can tie themselves down to the taxing ability of home-owners on low and fixed incomes. If they do, according to present indications, they can keep the general-and-debt tax rate level for the fourth year in succession only by noticeably cutting existing services and entirely ruling out improvements.

At that, they can't control the school tax rate, expected to increase about 10 per cent.

● They can cast loose from the ability of the poorer to pay. If they do, they will be accepting the reiterated advice of the city controller that "the deferment of necessary items of expenditure inevitably results in their cost being increased." A municipal government cannot mark time. It either progresses or deteriorates.

And if they approve all the special expenditures for improvements which both department heads and council committees have deemed necessary this year, the general-and-debt tax rate will probably increase about four mills, or 13 per cent.

● They can steer a middle course, and this they most likely will do. A two-mill increase in the general-and-debt rate (unless there are surprises in store in budget figures not yet available) would prevent existing services from being cut and would provide for a few of the most-needed improvements, including a thrice-deferred new deck for Johnson Street bridge.

The aldermen have little hope of equaling their budget-cutting record of last year, when they trimmed out proposed expenditures totalling $360,000. They managed that without seriously affecting existing services by turning down special expenditures for improvements totalling $227,000, and even so left some special expenditures in the budget.

CUT ALREADY

This year, pre-budget cutting has left them less to work on. If they slash all the special expenditures out of public works, parks and street-lighting estimates, the saving will be only $230,000.

A two-mill increase in general taxes and a two-mill increase in school taxes would increase the average home-owner's tax bill by $18.80. But the picture wouldn't be entirely black.

With the $22 increase in the provincial home-owners' grant, he would be better off than last year.

Indians' Protest

Mistake Says Chamber

Chamber of Commerce officials believe Chief John Albany of the Craigflower Reserve is on the wrong trail in calling for the chamber to "bury the hatchet" with Vancouver Island Indians.

Chief Albany challenged the chamber recently to "do its part for a change" in supporting Indian festivals and displays of traditional dancing.

But chamber president W. A. Pendray, manager John Coppinger and Sam Lane, chairman of the tourist trade group, believe Chief Albany was confusing the chamber with the Greater Victoria Celebrations Association.

"So far as I am concerned, we will do anything we can to help them," Mr. Pendray promised.

But Chief Albany's challenge has been taken up by William Hawkins, recently appointed commissioner of the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau. He is trying to arrange for a downtown display of Indian war canoes, and wants an Island Indian band—everything from whistles to drums—to march in the Victoria Day parade.

Berlin Requests B.C. Totem Poles

When Russian troops stripped Berlin of heavy machinery and tools immediately after the Second World War, they also appropriated the Berlin Museum's collection of Pacific Coast Indian totem poles.

And that is why Wilson Duff, provincial archeologist, received a letter this week from Berlin.

It was from the director of the Berlin Museum, appealing for "large original totem poles."

But, Mr. Duff said, he can't help the museum. All the poles which his department has collected were obtained with the

Girl Breaks Arm In Slide Fall

Six-year-old Helen Price, 3249 Maple, broke her right forearm at 3:45 p.m. yesterday in a fall from the slide at the Oak Street playground, Oak and Cloverdale. She was taken by Saanich police to St. Joseph's Hospital for treatment, and allowed to go home.

Travelling to Europe

George I. Warren—Tourist at Last

A Victoria man who spent half a lifetime seeing that millions of tourists enjoyed their holidays on Vancouver Island will become a tourist himself in May for the first time in his life.

But George I. Warren, for 42 years the head of the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau and now full-time manager of the Victoria Automobile Club, said yesterday he doubts that he will be able to vacate his role as Vancouver Island's goodwill ambassador.

"I guess wherever I go, London, Paris, Switzerland, Italy, Greece, it will be the same old story—I just won't be able to stop telling people about Victoria.

"And I don't really want to, either," he added with some conviction.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren will augment from their own savings a retirement bonus "package" which consisted of return tickets to London plus $1,300 in cash to make the two-month trip possible.

"I've been telling people from all over the world to come to Vancouver Island, but I've never been off the North American continent," Mr. Warren said yesterday.

"If I don't manage to send a few Europeans back here I'll be pretty surprised—I'll think I'm losing my touch," added the man who relinquished his "Mr. Victoria" title only a short time ago.

Will he take any literature bearing his famous "Follow the Birds to Victoria" slogan— "You bet I will—a whole suitcase of it, if I can."

Started in Vancouver

Victoria Pensioners to Get Share of Surplus Pork

Victoria pensioners will get their share of a shipment of federal surplus canned pork which is being distributed by the provincial government, a welfare official said here last night.

He said there would be a fair allocation of the surplus pork throughout B.C., and the fact that distribution had started in Vancouver already did not mean that Victoria and Vancouver Island pensioners' groups had been overlooked.

DIDN'T KNOW

Some pensioners' organizations here were not aware of the fact that the pork was to be distributed, and had made no applications for a quota, it was learned yesterday.

Owen Karn, president of the Silver Threads Society here, said last night that the executive of his organization would look into the situation today and probably make application for some of the surplus pork.

TO HOSPITALS

Close to 20,000 cans of it were received by the Vancouver Senior Citizens' Association, and a welfare official said some may have been already distributed to hospitals in the Greater Victoria area.

The pork was purchased by the federal government last year to reduce surplus stocks.

Cancer Society to Meet; Drive Seeks $50,000

Annual meeting of the Victoria unit of the Canadian Cancer Society will be held at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the clinic room at Royal Jubilee Hospital.

The annual Conquer Cancer Campaign, being held this month, is seeking $50,000 from Victoria residents to help finance research into the causes and cures for cancer.

Donations may be sent to the campaign headquarters, 816 Wharf Street.

Labor Raps Hiring Of Voters' List Help

Strong protest against hiring of retired businessmen as enumerators of voters was made last night by Victoria Labor Council.

Jack Driscoll, electrical workers' delegate, said these people who in most cases don't need the money get the provincial government jobs while there are 20,000 to 30,000, "perhaps even 50,000, unemployed in B.C., many of them on social assistance."

"Does it make sense when our own people are starving?" he said. Delegates voted to send a protest to the government.

B.C. Federation of Labor secretary Pat O'Neal told delegates Bill 43 has done "immense harm" to organized labor in the province and cited figures to show a drop in union membership from 33 per cent of the work force to 42 per cent since the legislation was passed.

"If this continues," said Mr. O'Neal, "in 10 years there won't be any organized labor in B.C. . . and you'll have to fight to justify your very existence."

Goodwill Going Along

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann: My husband is out of town on a job that keeps him away from home several months at a time. He is batching with a fellow worker I've never met.

When I wrote and asked if this man was married my husband replied that he didn't. I poked his nose into other people's business. He also made it plain the guy didn't ask him any questions either.

This got me to thinking. Since when is a man's family too personal a matter to bring up when you share an apartment together? I can't imagine a man who has a wife and four beautiful kids not mentioning them to his roommate—unless, of course, the two "boys" are living it up pretty good and passing themselves off as bachelors to each other and everybody else.

Maybe I've been alone too much and I'm getting half-cuckoo. If this is the case please tell me. What do you say?—HIDDEN WIFE.

Dear Hidden: I'd say you've been alone too much—but you're far from cuckoo.

There's something pretty flaky about a husband who would fail to mention his family to a man with whom he's been sharing living quarters for several months.

Take this cue to yank that wandering boy of yours home where he belongs. I don't know what kind of work he does, or what it pays—but it's not worth it.

Never Had a Date

Dear Ann: I'm almost 20 and have held down a good job for over two years—since high school graduation—and I have never had a date.

My father won't let me go out with a boy or even talk to one on the phone. When a fellow phones, my father slams the receiver down on him.

All through high school I had to stay away from school parties because my father was sure I would get into trouble. I've never given him any reason to think I'm a bad girl. He just has this idea in his head and I can't change it. Please tell me what to do. I feel like a prisoner in jail. My mother is scared to death of Dad so she can't help me. Can you?—INGRID.

Dear Ingrid: Your dad sounds like a sick man. Check with the public library and learn what the legal age is in your state. When you're of age, move into a private home with a respectable family and lead a normal life.

A few more years under this tyrant's iron rule and you'll be as sick as he is.

Let Him Practise

Dear Ann Landers: My husband retired last year at the age of 60 and he has worked hardest at his "hobbies" than he ever worked at his job.

Six months ago he bought a violin and he's driving me out of my mind. I don't even care for good violin music, so you can imagine what I go through listening to him practice. He takes two lessons a week and puts in at least three hours a day playing scales. When our children were young they all took music lessons but it never bothered me the way this does.

I would appreciate any suggestion.—EDITH R.

Dear Edith: Don't complain because your 60-year-old husband is fiddling around. At least he has a violin.

Ask him to set up a practice schedule so you can do your grocery shopping, visiting or bridge playing during the agony sessions.

To learn the difference between a marriage that "settles down" and one that "goes off" send for Ann Landers' booklet, "What to Expect From Marriage," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

What's Cooking!

Enjoy Own Party

By LOUISE MOORE

Here's a dinner menu you could prepare in your own home when playing hostess and yet give your yourself time to enjoy your own party.

Beef Bourguignon is even better when made in advance.

It's based on a gourmet entree as simple to make as any stew and is served buffet fashion, with crusty French bread or buttered noodles and a delicious endive, watercress and hearts of artichoke salad.

But if you don't mind spending extra time in the kitchen prepare Gnocchi instead of bread or noodles. A luscious chocolate whipped cream roll for the grand finale.

BEef BOURGUIGNON

Haul out your Dutch oven or a heavy pot and early in the day or the day before serving put into it 3 tbsp. of more of butter and when piping hot brown 3 lbs. chuck beef cut in 1-inch cubes. When nicely browned on all sides, flame with 3 tbsp. brandy. Remove beef and set aside.

Add 3 dozen small white onions peeled and slowly brown with lid on, stirring occasionally, then add 3 pound fresh small whole mushrooms and simmer 2 minutes.

Stir in 3 tsp. meat glaze, 3 tsp. tomato paste, 2½ tsp. flour, stir to mix and then add 1½ cup strong beef stock, ½ tsp. pepper, 1 bay leaf crumbled and cook slowly, stirring until smooth. Then add ½ cup Burgundy and ¼ cup sherry.

Return beef to mixture and simmer at least 2 hours, or until meat is tender, stirring frequently. Refrigerate until ready to use. Reheat and serve with a sprinkling of finely chopped parsley.

GNOCCHI

Early in day bring 1 cup cold water to a boil with 2 tsp. butter and ½ tsp. salt, stirring to dissolve butter. When boiling add 1 cup all-purpose flour all at once. Remove from heat and beat until smooth. Beat in 2 eggs one at a time and then add ¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese, 1 tsp. dry mustard and a speck cayenne. Refrigerate.

Shortly before serving, boil about 4 inches of water in a large saucepan. Remove from heat. Using a plain tube, pipe Gnocchi mixture through pastry bag into steaming water. Cut into 1-inch pieces. Let stand in the hot water away from heat until Gnocchi is firm and rises to top. Drain.

Arrange on au gratin dish. Pour melted butter over all. Sprinkle with grated cheese. Bake under broiler at broiling temperature until golden.

Use your favorite recipe for chocolate roll and fill it with sweetened whipped cream and garnish top with rosettes of whipped cream.

Minute Dog Star, Model

A fluffy pint-sized Toronto papillon dog named Charpin has probably achieved more national fame since he came to Canada five years ago pound for pound, than any other new Canadian.

He now has his own bank account, a membership card in the Association of Canadian Radio and Television Artists, started in his own play on the CBC-TV network, acted in legitimate theatre, and is in much demand as a fashion model.

Charpin (pronounced Shar-pin) also lays claim to having logged more miles as an airline passenger than any other dog in Canada.

His owner is Mrs. Alva McColl, Toronto, a former president of the Canadian Kennel Club and internationally known as a judge at leading dog shows. She used to breed Great Danes but fell in love with this tiny pooch when first she saw him in Switzerland while touring Europe with the Canadian Women's Press Club. Charpin travels with Mrs. McColl constantly, flying from one end of Canada to the other, and all over the United States, while his owner judges dog shows.

Charpin is just a little dog, weighing less than five pounds and he's such a quiet-mannered fellow that members of the Toronto Women's Press Club have adopted him as their official mascot.

At club meetings, and at social events, he's met such celebrities as Prime Minister Diefenbaker, J. B. Priestly and actress Constance Bennett, for whose Toronto opening performance in "Auntie Mame," Charpin sat alone in a front row orchestra seat, dressed in a mink-collared coat given him by the mother of figure skater Barbara Ann Scott.

St. John Brigade

Promoting Home Nursing

Discussions for broadening of volunteer services and enrolment of new members were two of the main projects which brought top officials of the St. John Ambulance Brigade, Ottawa, here yesterday.

Miss Margaret McLaren, superintendent-in-chief, and Mrs. W. P. Warner, chief nursing officer of national headquarters stated a further purpose was to "promote the Home Nursing Program."

At present 8,500 people are enrolled as volunteers in the St. John uniform throughout Canada.

"We have presented first aid home nursing and child care services to 102,000 people in the Dominion," added Miss McLaren.

Returning to the subject of home nursing, Mrs. Warner said the ultimate objective of the Brigade was to prepare one trained person in each home.

"We want to take home nursing into suburban and rural areas using portable equipment. People who show special aptitudes may be selected for 'hospital-experience' courses so they will be fully trained for emergencies."

The emergencies Mrs. Warner spoke of were both local and national, with much emphasis placed on Civil Defence training and survival courses.

Added to this St. John gives courses in schools, to youth groups and specialized training to the St. John cadet divisions. There are two active divisions of nursing cadets in Victoria.

In her summing-up Miss McLaren stated that excellent work was being carried on in this city.

Tips for Parents

Boy Not Talking

By HELEN R. HEWSON

Some of our favorite correspondents are grandmothers. One grandmother writes, "Our daughter's little girl was three in November, the boy will be five in June. They are busy little people and well cared for. The little girl talks well and freely but the boy does not respond to adults when we have him out."

"What can we do to help him answer adults before he starts to school in September?"

There are wide variations in the development of speech, differences in the ages at which children talk, in vocabulary, and in conversational ease. And boys are usually slower in developing speech skills than are girls.

There are also differences in opportunity. Children learn to talk by being talked to, even when they are tiny babies.

If mother is hurried, preoccupied when bathing and dressing the baby and does not bother to talk to him, or if the tone of her voice is complaining, worried, the baby will not respond.

Then there are the families who overwhelm children with chatter, or who coax, comment and urge the child to "speak up."

In these families a child may feel very unsure of his speech ability and keep quiet in self-defence.

Experiences that lie somewhere between these two extremes are most helpful for the child who is learning to talk.

Perhaps the most important factor of all in the child's developing speech skill is his general physical, social and mental growth and well-being.

Brew It Yourself

In these frenzied days of "instant" everything, it is an unexpected pleasure to hear these are still some quality types who take pleasure in what they eat and drink.

If you are a tea drinker you may like to know that there are hundreds of different teas grown all over the world. Some have extraordinary names like spiderleg, gunpowder, Russian Caravan, Keemun, and Formosa Oolong.

There are lots more and if you have a yen to try some of them one obliging store in Victoria has trial packets of any tea at the easy price of 25 cents.

Tea arrives in large chests and is packaged by this store to suit customers' requirements.

They also have 16 different types of coffee beans and are ready to help you choose your own blend of coffee if you have the time and the taste to discriminate.

Coffee machines for small and large quantities are stocked in this shop. Starting at a two-cup size dripulator they go up to a 48-cup percolator.

Good coffee is made from freshly ground beans and many coffee enthusiasts prefer to grind their own in small quantities at a time.

A grinder which is adjustable to different sized grains costs $4.50.

A chocolate drink was made originally from liquid cocoa and the Dutch were the first people to make a powder which preserved sufficient of the oil to make a good drink. They still produce good cocoa and it is sold loose in this shop at 85 cents a pound.

Bride chose a gown of Chantilly lace and nylon sheer, with basque bodice, lily point sleeves, scalloped neckline accented by iridescent sequins and floor-length skirt slightly on train. A fingertip veil was held by a coronet of sequins. She carried a cascade of Tallman roses and white carnations.

Maid of honor, Miss Heather Beasley and bridesmaids, Miss Sylvia and Miss Anne Baird wore identical shrimp toned dresses.

Raymond Phelps was best man and ushers were Lorne Thickett and Don Frewing.

Guests were received at a reception in Golden Slipper Supper Club.

Leaving on a wedding trip to the mainland, the bride donned an orchid toned wool

Lady Bird Johnson Better Organized Than Her Husband

(This is the second in a series of articles on the wives of prominent politicians for members of the United States.)

By FLETCHER KNEBEL
Lady Bird Johnson, 47-year-old wife of the senate Democratic leader, is the only wife of a 1960 presidential candidate who is a successful business woman.

She parlayed a $67,000 family inheritance into companies, lands and investments worth well over $1,000,000 without help from her husband.

She is a petite thing, wears a size 10 dress, stands five feet four and weighs 114 pounds. Her hair is dark brown.

She has gumption. Although frightened of the public forum she took a public speaking course and steered herself to face audiences.

Last year she took a course in Russian and manages a little chit-chat in the language.

Her husband, Lyndon Baines Johnson, the senior senator from Texas, got his political reputation as a master of organization in the United States Senate. But friends say Lady Bird is better organized than Lyndon.

Whatever Mrs. Johnson has to do, she does the best she can. She prefers low heels and sweaters to more stylish garb, but when Lyndon said a few years ago that he wanted her to dress up more, she took make-up lessons, hoisted her feet on high heels and bought her clothes with the care of a model.

She has applied the same careful attention to renovation and furnishing of the Johnson ranch buildings near Johnson City in Texas.

Known as "Bird" to her husband.

GANGES—The annual bean supper, put on by the men of the parish, was enjoyed by 140 people in St. George's Hall, Ganges, on March 31.

Victor Sholes, convener, was assisted by Archdeacon G. H. Holman, V. C. Best, R. Bidwell, P. Cartwright, D. G. Crofton, H. Eitel, H. C. Giegerich, H. Newman, V. C. Morris, W. M. Palmer, Harold and Reginald Price and Graham Sholes.

band and close friends, she functions as a public relations adviser to her husband. If an idea gets a cool reception from Bird, Johnson assumes the general public won't like it either.

After 25 years in Washington as the wife of a man who has become the second most powerful public figure in the city, she has failed to put on airs. She still chauffeurs constituents from Texas around the Washington sightseeing circuit and keeps the same friends she started with.

The "L. B. J." preoccupation of the family started naturally enough. When Lyndon Baines Johnson met Claudia Alta Taylor in 1934 in Austin, Tex., she wore the nickname Lady Bird.

The eldest daughter, 15, is named Lynda Bird. The other daughter, 12, is Lucy Baines. The dog's name is Little Beagle Johnson. The ranch brand is "L.B.J."

Mrs. Johnson's broadcasting concern is the L. B. J. Company. From the flag staff at the ranch, beneath Old Glory and the flag of the old Texas republic, flies a blue and white five-star standard with "L. B. J." on it.

The Johnsons' affluence has been an issue in Texas political campaigns. Some of his foes hinted broadly that Johnson fetched himself a tidy sum through political connections. But an exhaustive study of the Johnson finances shows that the money all came from the shrewd business judgment of Lady Bird.

During the depression, she inherited $67,000. In 1942 she bought radio station KTBC in Austin for $20,000.

Now she owns stations in Austin and Weslaco, plus minority interests in Waco and Bryan stations, real estate in Austin, the 200-acre ranch and about 4,000 acres of timber and cotton land.

A business woman in the White House would be something new. While many of the wives of the 1960 crop of candidates are well-to-do, Lady Bird is the only one who made it herself and keeps on racking it up.

"PAMPER THE BRUTE"

"Count Marco" writes in the S.F. Chronicle: "Too many women take love & husbands for granted. Don't sit back & expect him to know you love him, unless you keep telling him. Send him a greeting card for NO REASON AT ALL. Sending one to the office or money factory is a good idea too. This keeps his thoughts on YOU, instead of wandering around loosely on other women. A simple little flower in his water glass with a little gift tag on which you have written 'I Love You, You Gorgeous Beast' adds spice to his dinner. Buy little gifts, even if only a pack of his favorite cigarettes, to put with his shirt, when you lay out his clothes each morning. Don't mention it... JUST DO IT. And when you bring him his coffee to bed, hand him a cigarette (without lipstick on it) which YOU have just lighted. These little gestures keep him intrigued & alert that YOU are kind of special. He'll get a kick out of your sneaky feminine ways, and secretly LOVE it. One home I visited had 'I Love You' in gold lettering all over the wallpaper. The trouble with the American woman is, you are SO busy being his equal & buddy, that you wait for him to make the first considerable move. You'll wait TILL YOU KNOW WHEN, before he'll make the first move. When it reaches THAT stage, the only move he'll make, is down the street to some other little nest. There, some thoughtful little chick is probably whipping up lots of little unmentionables to keep him amused, and busy, and loveably silly.

If you DO these little things gaily, he just might let you come down to HUMBUR'S and splurge on that new sofa you want so badly... that's... to

great new Lipton Soups on us

YOU GET BOTH FREE

Taste good? Mmm.mmm... utterly delicious! But you have to taste these savoury soups yourself to know how really good they are. That's why...

WE URGE YOU TO TRY THEM AT OUR EXPENSE!

We're so sure you'll relish every last sip, Lipton's offer to pay for your first two packages of each soup.

New Lipton Cream of Mushroom Soup is the mushroom-iest soup you've ever sipped. Unlike the usual kind, this mushroom soup doesn't "just suggest" mushroom flavour... it's bursting with fresh, tender-crisp mushrooms and true mushroom taste. Makes wonderful sauce and gravy, too.

New Lipton Chicken with Rice Soup smacks of tasty chicken simmering in a golden, deep-flavoured broth... a broth that's pure, chicken-ey goodness through and through. Add delicate tender rice... a hint of seasoning... and there you have it—NEW Lipton Chicken with Rice Soup.

ALL YOU DO is buy two packages of Lipton Cream of Mushroom Soup... or two packages of Lipton Chicken with Rice Soup... or two packages of each soup (4 altogether). Enjoy these tasty treats to your heart's content... then send the empty packages to Lipton Soups, Box 2146, Toronto, Ontario... and Lipton will pay you the purchase price!

Japan Garden Given to UBC

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Japanese garden, complete with a $5,500 tea house, plants, trees, stone lanterns, scrolls, vases and even incense burners, has arrived here.

The $20,000 garden, to be transplanted to three acres at the University of British Columbia, was donated by the Japanese government.

Master flower arrangers and experts in the traditional tea ceremony will arrive here from Japan in time for the official opening May 3.

Jennie Morris

PPCLI Mourns 'Mother'

Jennie Morris, wartime "mother" of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry in London, has died at her home in Guelson, England.

Word of her death last month was received by A. J. Lowry of Central Saanich, one of thousands of soldiers of the First World War who made a second home of Miss Morris' house in London.

"She threw her home open to the soldiers during the war," he said. "When you were in London you went there, then told your buddies when you got back. She must have taken in thousands of us."

PPCLI members, in gratitude for her help, brought Miss Morris on a Canada-wide tour in 1938. Reports in the Colonist of that time say that at the height of the war "home from home," as her place was known, it was estimated that 90,000 breakfasts were served.

An old violin that was thought to be a priceless instrument was found yesterday to be just another old violin.

The violin, owned by 17-year-old Audrey Gillespie, 2930 Bridge Street, was examined yesterday by Clifford Evans, concert master of the Victoria Symphony Orchestra and found to be of no particular value.

LET'S TALK

By Rudolf Flesch

What can be done to promote world peace?

My colleague, Roscoe Drummond, recently asked the readers of his column to send in new suggestions for peace measures. He promised to pass them on to the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, which has asked for such proposals.

To my way of thinking, the best means of promoting world peace is international student exchange. Suppose there are millions of young people all over the world who have shared the home and family life of other countries.

Can you imagine that they'll be ready and eager to throw bombs and missiles on those people whom they've come to know as their friends? Of course not—an enemy is by definition someone you don't know intimately.

Nostalgic Memory

Yes, I know that wars nowadays are not made by people but by their governments. But I still think it would make a difference if a sizable part of the population were on terms of close friendship with their "enemies," going back to nostalgic memories of their student days.

Just the other day there was an item in the New York papers describing a trip of seven New York City teenagers to Puerto Rico. The seven boys were members of a Harlem gang of Italians engaged in grim warfare against a gang of Puerto Ricans. So the Puerto Rican government invited the seven Italian boys to come down to Puerto Rico for the Christmas vacations.

When they returned, their attitude toward Puerto Ricans had changed completely. They had expected to meet "another bunch of people like 116th Street." Instead they had seen "a beautiful island with everybody hospitable-like and wanting to do things for you."

Mingling Freely

Now translate this little item into year-long student exchanges of young people. Imagine students from Europe, Asia, Africa, North and South America freely mingling in schools and universities all over the world.

This is not a Utopian dream. Right now there are several student exchange organizations operating in this country, among them the American Field Service, 113 East 30th Street, New York 16, N.Y.

Last fall they placed a charming young Indonesian girl in our home, who will stay with us until June, studying at our local high school. We are all extremely fond of her and, incidentally, have learned a lot about Indonesia and its fine people.

I can assure you that this household will do its utmost to prevent the outbreak of any war between the United States and Indonesia.

Grand Jury Raps Arthur Murray

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A grand jury has declared the Arthur Murray and Ray Quinlan dance studios in St. Louis systematically pressure their students to sign expensive contracts for dance lessons.

The grand jury said, however, it found no evidence of fraud — "You cannot outlaw gullibility or stupidity."

Space Flight Unlikely

Loss Unbearable

MUNICH (AP)—A group of West German scientists contends that the public is being misled about the possibility of successfully rocketing men into space.

Part of the criticism is directed at Werner von Braun, who built rockets for Hitler and now is doing the same for the United States.

Dr. Rudolf Kuehn, a Munich astronomer, said rockets are still far too unsafe for manned space flights.

Among the scientists who share this view are Dr. Wolf Trommsdorff, who spent six years on Soviet projects, and Robert Lusser, who worked 10 years on U.S. government projects.

"Our criticism," Kuehn said, "is directed not just against von Braun, but at all other scientists who make irresponsible statements."

Lusser, who worked with von Braun at the U.S. Army's Redstone arsenal, said:

"For an unmanned space and moon rocket for scientific purposes, a reliability of 50 per cent might be quite sufficient. In the case of manned space craft, however, a reliability of 50 per cent, implying the loss of half of all the crews, would be quite unbearable on ethical grounds."

"But the possibility of return of the crews would be 1,000,000 times less. A trip to the moon or to Mars would certainly end with the loss of the space craft and the death of the crew."

Loch Ness in Scotland—home of the legendary Loch Ness monster—is 23 miles long with an average width of 1 1/4 miles.

Worry of FALSE TEETH Slipping or Irritating?

Don't be embarrassed by loose false teeth slipping, dropping or wobbling when you eat, talk or laugh. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH on your plates. This pleasant powder gives a remarkable sense of added comfort and security by holding plates more firmly. No sunny, gooey, pasty taste or feeling. It's alkaline (non-acid). Get FASTEETH at any drug counter.

Space 'Stunt'

NEW BEDFORD, Mass. (AP)—A well-known scientist was quoted yesterday as saying that "putting a man in space is a stunt" with little scientific or military value.

The statement by Dr. Vannevar Bush was read to the House of Representatives committee on science and astronautics in Washington.

Dr. Bush said that a man in space "can do no more than an instrument, in fact can do less."

"There are far more serious things to do than to indulge in stunts," he told the committee.

The results of some satellite launchings, he said, had been "valuable and intriguing," but did not warrant restriction on missile development.

HARDER, FASTER, SUPER-TOUGH SHINE!

Yes, the most modern paste wax there is! And new Klear Paste Wax does more than you ever expected a paste wax to do. Klear in name... clear on your floor... plus a new ease and speed of application. New Klear Paste Wax is specially created to go on easier... buff up faster... give a super-tough shine.

Tests in the laboratory, and in homes like your own, show that no paste wax shine is more durable than Klear's new high-gloss shine. It's so tough it fights even the hardest, longest wear. Yes, Klear's new paste wax formula puts the hardness in the shine, not in the waxing. A crystal clear shine with no yellowing haze. Try it!

THE SHINING'S EASY... IT'S THE SHINE THAT'S HARD!

National Wild Life Week Starts Sunday in Canada

Next week has been declared National Wild Life Week. Recreation Minister Earle Westwood said yesterday. "The event will be marked by most provinces. There is more education and less legislation," which Mr. Westwood says his department "heartily endorses."

Red Chef Tastes Liberty

LONDON (UPI)—The head chef at Communist China's London embassy has defected to the west and been granted asylum in Britain, it was announced yesterday. Kou Teh-Lou, 40, told the press conference he sneaked out of the embassy on Feb. 26 while other staff members were attending a daily political indoctrination meeting. It was the first time he had ever been in the streets of London alone, he said. Refugee officials said today.

They believed Kou was the first member of a Communist Chinese diplomatic establishment to gain asylum in the free world. Speaking through an interpreter, Kou said daily life inside the London Embassy is severely regimented.

Neutral Canada Fine Idea, Russian Envoy Indicates

WINNIPEG (CP)—Russia's attitude to a neutral Canada would be "very positive," A. A. Aroutunian, Soviet ambassador to Canada, said yesterday, but added: "As an ambassador, I cannot go further." His comment came after he was asked about a recent suggestion in the Commons that Canada should disarm and leave NATO.

Gallery Raid Nets 11 Paintings

Daily Colonist Victoria, B.C., Thurs., April 7, 1960 25

HAMILTON (CP)—Eleven paintings valued at $56,000 were cut from their frames and stolen from the Hamilton Art Gallery Tuesday night. Another was slashed and left at the scene.

Two of the paintings were valued at $15,000 each. One was worth $10,000 and others ranged between $800 and $3,000 in value.

Police said the theft might be linked with recent art thefts in Toronto. Three 19th century Canadian paintings worth $12,000 were stolen from the Royal Ontario Museum on March 4.

Gallery officials said the $56,000 figure was the insured value of the paintings. Their actual value could be from $80,000 to $90,000 they added.

The Antarctic continent has no land animals or birds, but the surrounding seas abound in seals and whales.

Police said eight oils on canvas, two oils on wood and one pastel work, all taken from number six gallery in the southwest part of the building.

More than 5,127,000 people visited Ontario provincial parks in 1959, compared with 3,232,000 the previous year.

No other paintings in the gallery were touched.

One painting, Martin Luther's Doubts, by James J. J. Tissot, worth $1,000, was slashed down the middle and left in the gallery.

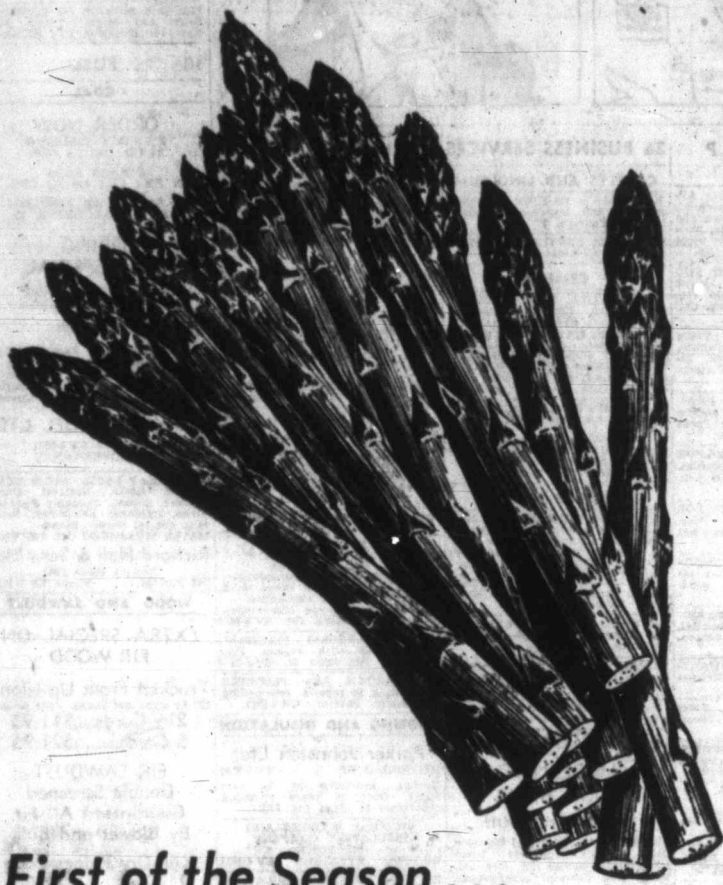

The thieves entered the building by sawing a hole through the bottom panel in a rear door. The gallery burglar alarm is not activated unless the door is forced open.

Acting gallery director Mrs. Marie Lester said all the stolen paintings were classics.

They included works by Kriehoff, Braque, Morrice, Courbet, L'Hermitte and Fantin-Latour.

STEWART & HUDSON 405 Gorge Road EV 2-2171 EV 2-2612 Open All Day Saturday	Western RED CEDAR Bevel SIDING "Keystone" clear kiln dried siding is the finest available—a quality material for all applications where perfection is required. With its "grow-in" workability, weather resistance and lasting good looks, "Keystone" clear Western Red Cedar Siding has long been recognized as the standard of quality home construction. It has a distinctive "shadow line" which enhances any architectural style in any setting, and is used to create a variety of interesting decorative effects on indoor surfaces as well as exterior. 5 GRADES TO CHOOSE FROM! "FOREST" CEDAR SIDING WHAT IS FOREST SIDING? Made of dry 1 1/2" stock to 10 and 12-inch widths, "FOREST" siding is a new type of siding obtained from specially selected cedar logs sawn to show the beauty and character of knots, burrs, etc. APPEARANCE? For homes and buildings where a distinctive and pleasing appearance is desired, "FOREST" siding is a new type of siding obtained from specially selected cedar logs sawn to show the beauty and character of knots, burrs, etc. WHAT ARE ITS QUALITIES? "FOREST" siding, with its sub-stantial thickness and greater wood volume, adds to the structural strength and stability of the building. The design of "FOREST" siding creates a light weathered look, the lap which together with its thickness and finish-to-hair principle makes excellent material from the insulation standpoint. "FOREST" siding represents an economy to home builders. Costing less than most other types of siding, the lap design ensures easy fitting and speedy application at less labor cost. HOW IS IT APPLIED? As easily and quickly as common shiplap. Each piece of "FOREST" siding fits snugly on the one below and requires only one nail cut. HOW CAN IT BE FINISHED? If a natural finish is desired, use equal proportions of raw linseed oil and any well-known brand of water-proof sealer. This not only protects the wood surface, but also brings out the natural beauty of the knots and the grain. If a colored finish is desired, "FOREST" siding can easily be painted. If it is recommended that a sharp instrument be used to remove the finished product underneath the lap (where it will not show) to stop formation of a vapor barrier. Raise Tariff Wall Urges Conservative

Don't Need To Buy

OTTAWA (UPI)—A veteran front-bench Conservative yesterday urged strongly that Canada withdraw from the General Agreement of Tariffs and Trade, and substitute a "made-in-Ottawa" tariff policy for the "made-in-Geneva" policy of recent years.

W. Earle Rowe (Dufferin-Simcoe), sole survivor in the House of the 1930-35 Bennett cabinet, raised a generally dull and lagging budget debate to new interest by suggesting that the present Conservative government give more consideration to development policies for Canadian industry, even if it meant a lessened participation in international tariff arrangements.

NO SACRIFICE

"We must not sacrifice our economic independence on the altar of world diplomacy," Mr. Rowe warned.

He also pressed for an enlargement of the existing tariff board that it might receive direct appeals and submissions from producer and consumer organizations and expedite findings and recommendations to the government.

CHALLENGE

Mr. Rowe, a lifelong farmer who also had many years of industrial experience as president of a major newspaper firm, challenged vigorously the argument that sales of Canadian commodities abroad depended upon giving other countries access to the home market.

"It is a misapprehension in this country," he declared, "that we must accept finished manufactured goods from a country before we can sell raw products."

DON'T ASK

"When the Cleveland steel producers purchase our Steep Rock and Labrador iron ore," he said, "they do not ask the United States textile companies and other United States manufacturing companies if their sales in our consumer market justify their continued purchase of such iron ore... and the fact that we buy more finished goods from our friendly United States neighbors than any other country does not influence them to buy our uranium when they do not need it."

Trading Stamps To Aid School

MONTREAL (CP)—A supermarket chain has agreed to contribute up to $50,000 to a student aid fund at a Montreal high school under an indirect program involving trading stamps. The firm plans to make the contribution in return for trading stamps collected by parents of students. The firm will give $2.25 for each 1,500 stamps collected.

Two Killed

Two Canadian Cars Collide in Idaho

SANDPOINT, IDAHO (AP)—After unweaving a tangle of evidence, authorities Wednesday identified a woman and boy killed in a head-on collision Tuesday as Mrs. Helen Goertzen, 56, Lorette, Minn., and Gregory Sandberg, 4, Fort St. John, B.C.

Bonner County coroner L. G. Moon, Jr., said the boy was identified by his father, Allan H. Sandberg, 35, who is semi-conscious and in critical condition in a Spokane hospital.

Also in critical condition was Robert O'Brien, 35, of Vancouver, who had hitched a ride with Sandberg.

In fair condition is Jacob Goertzen, 60, a prosperous farmer and father of 12 children, who was returning home with his wife after a trip to B.C.

Officials are seeking Mrs.

Sandberg, who friends in Canada said was travelling with her husband and child. Moon said there is a possibility she may have been dazed in the accident and wandered from the scene.

Police said the B.C. car was apparently travelling at high speed and crossed the centre line into the path of the Manitoba vehicle.

Identification was delayed by the condition of Sandberg and O'Brien and the fact Goertzen underwent surgery after arrival at Spokane.

Officers were also puzzled by the fact there were toys inside the Manitoba car, although the boy's body lay alongside the other vehicle.

Action Closer

On Delinquency

Welfare Minister Wesley Black said yesterday his department is carefully studying the report of the legislative committee on juvenile delinquency with a view to implementing some of the recommendations.

"We are now ready to talk with the attorney-general's department to work out a plan of co-operative action," he said.

Living Beyond Means

'Constant Barrage Of Propaganda'

OTTAWA (CP)—An attack on the "constant barrage of propaganda" urging people to live beyond their means was launched Tuesday by Vice-Admiral H. T. W. Grant (Ret.), president of the Royal Canadian Benevolent Fund.

Admiral Grant, re-elected president at the annual meeting of the organization, said this propaganda contributes to many present-day family financial problems.

GENUINE DISTRESS

The fund's claims register showed at one end genuine distress born of unforeseen tragedy and at the other "outrageous financial difficulties attributable to human errors of the stupidest kind."

"And in between... we glimpse the modern version of the debtors' prison."

He said many families with reasonable incomes are "hopelessly in debt through purchases made in the first instance on credit and later financed at loans at truly majestic interest rates."

The fund was paying out less money to offset unforeseen expenses than previously and more to compensate loan companies and credit granters for uncollected accounts.

To combat the credit propaganda, the fund was assisting the navy's director of welfare in a program to counsel servicemen against entering dangerous debt positions.

quickest way to a tastier EASTER DINNER

HAM GLAZE

This is the shiniest glaze possible. Thirty minutes before ham is done, remove from oven. Cut off heavy rind. Score fat with sharp knife. Decorate with whole cloves, maraschino cherries and pineapple. Drizzle Rogers Golden Syrup over all and return to oven for thirty minutes. OR mix Rogers Golden Syrup with prepared mustard, powdered ginger or any other spice. Drizzle over plain or decorated ham.

5 minute CANDIED YAMS

Boil 6 sweet potatoes, peel and slice in two, lengthways. Place in baking pan. Salt and pepper to taste. Combine 1/4 cup Rogers Golden Syrup with 1/4 cup butter and bring to boil. Pour over potatoes. Top with slivered almonds and pop under broiler for 5 or 6 minutes. OR make a delicious casserole by mashing potatoes first. 6 to 8 servings.

Rogers EASTER BUNNY

Half fill a sherbet glass with marshmallows. Use large scoop of ice cream for head, and strips of marshmallow for ears. Fasten ears to ice cream with toothpicks. Form eyes with halved jellybeans, and mouth from a cherry. Use toothpick to draw whiskers on ice cream. Pour Rogers Golden Syrup around base of ice cream. Children love this dessert.

School-Speed Tickets Torn Up in Vancouver

Some 50 Vancouver motorists have been told to tear up the tickets they have received for failing to abide by 15-mile-an-hour school zones but Victoria drivers won't be in the same boat.

Victoria has gradually discarded all its school speed zone signs in favor of school crosswalks and blue caution signs, a city engineering department official said last night.

In Vancouver, a number of the 15-mile zone signs are still in use and are rendered legally obsolete by a recent provincial statute which increased school zone speeds to 20 miles an hour all over B.C.

Because of the illegality of the existing signs, the legal speed limit in the zones automatically increases to 20 miles an hour, the same as in the rest of the city.

'Astral' Meeting And Real Baby

LONDON (AP)—A divorce court judge Wednesday rejected a wife's explanation that she gave birth to a child conceived by the spiritual bodies of herself and a man.

Mrs. Olive Day Bull denied ever having intercourse with the co-respondent, Adrian de Payneville.

She told the court that on VE Day, 1945, there was a passionate meeting some place between her and de Payneville's astral bodies.

As the result, she said, a child was born—13 years later.

Mrs. Bull said she met de Payneville in the flesh for the first time in 1956 while she was doing a house-to-house canvass for a religious sect.

As their friendship deepened their spiritual discussions became a bond between them.

The husband, Albert Edward Bull, said he returned home one occasion and found de Payneville with his wife. De Payneville was dressed in a brown robe, white rosary and crucifix.

The judge gave Bull the divorce and custody of two children born earlier in the marriage.

He also ordered the co-respondent to pay £100 in costs.

Boys' Night Out

Wanderers All Right

A cold "night out" left no ill-effects on a trio of small boys who vanished from home about 5.15 p.m. Tuesday and were not found until 9.50 a.m. yesterday.

John Perey, 11, of 515 Gorge East; Arnold Twamy, 9, of 626 Dunedun; and his six-year-old brother Philip, spent the night under a new addition to a bank at Hillside and Quadra.

They had spent the evening, Mr. Perey said yesterday, wandering around and buying "a bunch of junk" with some money John had found at home.

They were cold when they awoke and bought bacon-and-egg breakfasts on Hillside with some of the remaining money.

The three were spotted on Quadra between Hillside and Kings Road by a city motorcycle officer and juvenile officer—two of a number of police who had kept an eye out for the boys all night, and searched the waterfront area in the morning.

"I didn't get any sleep myself," Mr. Perey said, "and kept thinking of the log booms down at the Gorge. I looked all along there myself this morning, and had just got home when police brought the boys back.

"It made me feel light as a feather."

State Medicine

It's Good for Ike But Bad for Aged

WASHINGTON (UPI)—An AFL-CIO leader yesterday accused the Eisenhower administration of a "shameful surrender to the American Medical Association and the insurance companies" on the issue of medical care for the aged.

James B. Carey, president of the International Union of Electrical Workers, made the charge in testimony prepared for a Senate labor subcommittee studying problems of the aging.

The administration is opposed to any health plan tied to the social security program.

In an obvious reference to President Eisenhower's treatment for major illnesses in military hospitals, Carey said:

"The president has not hesitated to use all the benefits of state medicine. He is living proof, in fact, that good medical care can be provided in this fashion."

1947 Slayings Lead Studied

VANCOUVER (CP)—Police said Wednesday they are checking new information in the 13-year-old babes-in-the-woods murder case.

They said a North Coast man talked to them following a newspaper flashback on the brutal double slaying of two unidentified children.

The bodies, in an advanced state of decay, were found about 50 feet off a trail in Vancouver's Stanley Park in 1953, six years after the murders.

The man told police he knew a family that later disappeared. The wife was depressed and attempted suicide and the two children would have been about the same age as the murder victims.

Sidney Fireman Proposes Free Ambulance Service were concerned last night over a request by a volunteer fire department official that no charge be made for the volunteer ambulance service.

Commissioners, considering the day the ambulance would have to be replaced, felt if no charge was made there would be nothing in the volunteer fire department fund for a new ambulance.

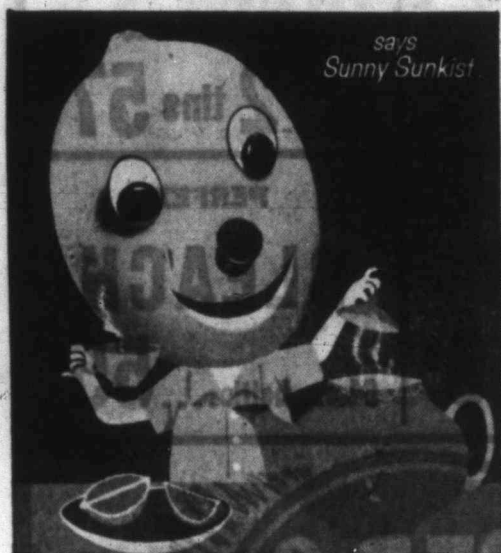

Commission chairman Dr. C. H. Hemmings said: "The people of Sidney agreed to take fire protection money out of general revenue but did not know anything about an ambulance."

He said the organization that foots the bills (the fire committee) should have some say in money policy of the department.

The ambulance was purchased through a joint canvassing campaign by Sidney Klismen and volunteer firemen and went into service last July. The matter will be referred to the next fire committee meeting.

'What's Tea without fresh Lemon?'

Fresh lemon does wonderful things for tea! That tart-sweet lemon tang sharpens the flavour... and makes tea far more refreshing than it ever was before. Try squeezing a few drops of fresh Sunkist Lemon juice into the hot tea itself... and float a thin slice of lemon on top. (Once you've tasted it you may never want to drink tea any other way!)

Important! To all friends of MAYFLOWER Margarine: THE NAME'S BEEN CHANGED TO imperial

"NEVER PAY 70¢ AGAIN" SAY HOUSEWIVES AFTER TASTING NEW MARGARINE

Hundreds of women taste-tested completely new, completely different Imperial Margarine and the great majority of them agreed: "You can't tell the difference between Imperial and the high-priced spread."

Like the 70¢ spread, Imperial is sold only under refrigeration. Look for it in the refrigerated counter at your grocer's today!

TRY THIS TASTE TEST FOR YOURSELF! Spread a piece of toast with completely new, completely different Imperial and another with the "high-priced" spread. Taste them both. See if you don't agree with hundreds of other housewives who couldn't tell the difference between Imperial and the "high-priced" spread.

TRY IMPERIAL ANY WAY YOU LIKE—on fresh bread, on muffins or on hot vegetables. The answer is always the same—Imperial has the taste that's been missing in margarine—real natural taste!

YOU'LL FIND IMPERIAL SUPERIOR IN MANY WAYS. It gives your family the same nourishing quality all year round. It stays fresh longer. It spreads smoother and easier.

SO WHY PAY 70¢ EVER AGAIN for a table spread, when you can enjoy Imperial's real natural taste for so much less.

OTTAWA (UPI)—Moon-shiner Allan Morrison waited 14 years to serve his sentence in Sydney, Nova Scotia's overcrowded jail, but it now seems likely he won't have to go to prison.

Morrison, 33, who is a respected citizen of Hamilton, Ont., was convicted of operating a still in Cape Breton back in 1946. The "full house" sign at the jail meant he had to wait to serve his 12-month term.

The 19-year-old Morrison was released. After waiting in vain for a cell he moved to Hamilton, 1,000 miles away. He made no secret of the fact and let everyone know his whereabouts in correspondence with friends in Sydney.

But the long arm of the law, and the tradition that "the Mountie always gets his man" paid off last week when the Royal Canadian Mounted Police found the case under a red tah: "Case not closed."

It was an easy job to find Morrison and he was taken back to Sydney. There was some doubt, however, that he finally entered the jail there.
The National Parole Board was considering his case and was expected to hand down a decision in the next few days.
Informants said it was more than likely Morrison would be freed.

Show Business

Anne Bancroft, who could get nowhere in Hollywood in 18 "B" movies but hit Broadway stardom with her first play, "Two for the Seesaw," won fresh stage honors this season as Helen Keller's teacher in "The Miracle Worker."

One of a accolades which came to the highly-individualistic Anne, who professes to be a pretty kooky character off-stage, was the ANTA award as the best actress of the year. A major turnout of Broadway stars and producers attended the dinner in the grand ballroom of the Astor Theatre.

Even Rex Harrison, who seldom attends such functions, made a point to attend to make the presentation speech to Anne. When he finished, he handed her the handsomely engraved silver bowl award.

Miss Bancroft's reply had the same stunned reaction on the star audience as Eva Marie Saint's at the recent Screen Producers Guild dinner in Hollywood.

Looking in puzzlement at the bowl, Anne flipped, "What is it? Well, thanks anyway!"

APPLE DESSERTS WITH A DIFFERENCE

Apple Fritters
Make the batter an hour or more ahead of time for best results. Have deep fat, or oil, for frying. Batter: Beat 2 egg yolks until thick. Add 3/4 cup of milk and 1 tbsp. oil or melted butter. Add 1 cup flour and 1/4 tsp. salt. Batter should be like thin cream. Add more milk, if needed. Just before frying, add beaten egg whites. Core, peel and slice Winesaps. Dip in batter and fry at 375°. Sprinkle with sugar and serve hot.

Spring Compote
Make a syrup of equal parts of sugar and water. Peel and cut Winesaps in eighths. Apples should not be crowded to cook. Simmer a few at a time. Remove to serving dish and continue cooking until all the apple pieces are tender but not mushy. Pour any remaining syrup over apples. Serve cold with whipped cream or custard.

Buttered Apples
Prepare a vanilla syrup (equal parts of sugar and water, flavoured with vanilla or you can use a commercial syrup and thin with a little water). Cook syrup a few minutes. Core and peel some Winesaps. Parboil two minutes in water to which you add a few slices of lemon. Remove lemon and place apples in baking dish with vanilla syrup. Bake covered until tender but not at all mushy. Now fill apples with a mixture of icing sugar and B.C. butter (the French add a dash of brandy). Bake uncovered till butter mixture bubbles over sides of Winesaps. Serve hot.

B.C. Winesaps are the apples to buy in the spring when they are tart, crisp and wonderful. Raw or cooked, these sunny, fresh-tasting apples have a flavour all their own, and so much to mealtime enjoyment. You can serve them in many appetizing ways — and be sure of winning compliments. Buy B.C. Winesaps — now in good supply at your favourite grocer's.

AN IMPORTANT B.C. INDUSTRY

The apple growers of British Columbia are independent business men striving to produce the finest fruit at the lowest possible prices. The fruit growers contribute $13,500,000 a year to the economy of our province but their importance cannot be measured in dollars alone. Fruit growing is a vital part of our agricultural industry and B.C. apples are among the best in the world.

Bank Drive Opens

Bank employees in Victoria and other island centres were handed leaflets and information cards as they left their work yesterday afternoon.

The move marks the start of a labor campaign to organize bank employees throughout B.C.

Pat O'Neill, secretary of the B.C. Federation of Labor, said in Victoria last night that some banks, in order to counteract the organization drive, have offered employees salary increases of up to $400 a year.

In Vancouver, Bill Lowe, national vice-president of the Office Employees' Union (CLC) said he hoped to reach 3,500 employees, about half the provincial total, in the first two days of the drive.

A Swedish law effective January 1, 1948, prohibits showing of wild beasts at circuses and variety theatres.

New Warning Radar Increases War Risk

OTTAWA (CP) — Some authorities here are jittery, as completion nears of the first of three missile warning radars.

They feel that this warning system is necessary but that, at the same time, it increases the chances of a nuclear war breaking out by miscalculation.

The big disadvantage of these 3,000-mile radars is that they can't distinguish between a nuclear-headed intercontinental ballistic missile and a peaceful satellite.

In fact, normal interference caused by sun flares and the like might appear on the radar scopes as a missile in space.

Canada is paying some $11,000,000 toward the cost of undersea and land communication between the radar at Thule, Greenland, now nearing completion, and North American Air Defence Command headquarters at Colorado Springs, Colo.

The network is a stop-gap until the United States develops the Midas satellite which would provide warning of missile launchings in the Soviet Union.

Canada will share with the United States control of the missile warning radars because one information centre will be at NORAD, a joint Canada-U.S. command.

It would not be up to NORAD to launch missile-and-bomber retaliation.

But there will be another display centre at Strategic Air Command headquarters at Omaha, Neb.

Gen. Thomas Power, SAC commander, said last year he would not fire his missiles simply on the strength of information picked up by the missile warning radars.

"Sure as shooting," he said,

objects detected by the radars could well turn out to be "spit-niks, interference or something like that."

In the long run, all the radars may accomplish will be to keep NORAD and SAC headquarters in a state of nervous prostration.

LOS ANGELES—Victoria Cougars defeated Vancouver Canucks 4-2 here last night to take a 2-0 lead in the best-of-nine Western Hockey League final. Third game will be played here tonight and the series then shifts to Victoria where a sell-out already is assured for Saturday night. See Page 8.

POLICE, TROOPS SMASH NEGROES' STRONGHOLDS

South Africa Marks Coming of White Man

CAPETOWN (Reuters)—Government forces smashed Negro "danger points" Wednesday while South Africa officially celebrated the coming of the white man to the Cape of Good Hope more than 300 years ago. (See also Page 3.)

A strong government force encircled the Negro township of Nyanga outside Capetown, where police and Negroes clashed several times earlier this week. Police said the community was held by "terrorists."

300 ARRESTED

Heavily armed police and army reservists broke a pocket of Negro resistance outside Durban. More than 300 "agitators" were arrested in the Negro suburb of Lamontville.

At the same time, the government reimposed the rule requiring non-whites to show identity cards to police on demand. An African campaign against the hated pass system sparked the current emergency. Police two weeks ago temporarily suspended the pass rules, which control the movement and activity of non-whites.

POLICE, TROOPS

Police and troops cracked down on the 16-day-old African campaign for political rights—marked by native strikes—while thousands of white South Africans headed for beaches and special holiday sports events.

An official holiday marked the establishment of the Cape Colony by Dutch settlers under Jan Van Riebeck April 6, 1652.

FEW ATTEND

Celebrations marking the creating of the Union of South Africa May 31, 1910, opened simultaneously with a $30,000,000 exhibition in Johannesburg, but crowds at the exhibition were small.

Troops completely closed off Nyanga township during the day while most of its 25,000 Negro inhabitants were at home.

BAYONETS FIXED

Soldiers with fixed bayonets stood at intervals of about 30 yards while others with machine-guns stood by.

Armored cars assembled in the area while planes and helicopters circled overhead during the day. Searchlights were mounted to sweep the area during darkness.

HIT HOSTELS

A strong force of police and army reservists moved in on a cluster of workers' hostels at Lamontville before dawn Wednesday. Police said defiant Negroes refusing to go to work had held the centre since Monday night.

The fenced buildings were surrounded and a police loud-speaker warned those inside the hostel would be cleared by gunfire if they did not come out peacefully.

WEAPONS SEIZED

The Negroes surrendered and more than 300 of them were arrested. Police said they confiscated thousands of clubs, axes, picks and three firearms in the hostel buildings.

Serious Crisis

Business Hits Verwoerd Acts

By KEN MacTAGGART
Colonist Special Correspondent

JOHANNESBURG—The first serious crisis for the Verwoerd government loomed today as a rising wave of criticism of its violent anti-native policy recruited South Africa's powerful business forces.

In the face of the Public Safety Laws and the arbitrary authority to imprison without trial anyone who even suggests change of any legislation, the Cape Chamber of Commerce has requested an audience with the prime minister at which it is reported a demand will be made for government recognition of native leaders, changes in pass laws, and less rigid control of native movements.

OPEN CHALLENGE

Backed by comparable business voices in the Rand or Johannesburg area, the Cape chamber in this action has openly challenged the emergency regulations because government policy on all the matters it proposes is embodied in statutes.

But behind it has been evidence of a growing belief that the government's course has lost the support of a majority of the citizens of this country.

NOT BY POLICE

Although some still believe a separate development for natives is possible, they say it cannot be achieved by un-

Right on Border

Senator Seeks 'Friendship Dam'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Construction of Libby Dam jointly by the United States and Canada as a symbol of their friendship was suggested Wednesday by Senator Mike Mansfield (Dem., Mont.).

Disagreement between the two countries over benefits from the proposed Kootenay River Dam for years has prevented its construction in northwestern Montana by U.S. army engineers. The dam would back water into Canada.

Mansfield, assistant Senate Democratic leader, wrote his suggestion to State Secretary Christian Herter.

"Would it be possible," Mansfield asked, "to build the Libby project on the border between the two countries within the state of Montana and the province of British Columbia?"

"Would not a joint effort of this kind serve as a symbol of the friendship and the dependence, one upon the other, of the people of Canada and the United States?"

His Smell Worth $12,600

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Vancouver man who lost his sense of smell in an automobile accident three years ago has been awarded $12,600 in damages.

The settlement was announced by Chief Justice Sherwood Lett in B.C. Supreme Court Wednesday by J. Arthur MacLennan, counsel for Reginald Bailey of Vancouver.

"I shall be taking scientific observations on the effects of living on grass," she told reporters.

After her American walk, a long Canadian walk is on the agenda.

'Flying Barrel' Goes Straight Up

REDFORD, England (AP) — Britain claimed a major breakthrough Wednesday with the first successful flight of a plane that takes off and lands vertically.

The plane is the jet-powered SC-1, otherwise known as the "Flying Barrel." Test pilot Tom Brooke-Smith took it on a circuit of a research airfield.

"Now we can take it off vertically, fly it away and bring it back just as we shall do with supersonic airliners in a few years time," he said.

The makers, Short and Harland Limited, said that apart from civil uses, the SC-1 makes possible the development of warplanes independent of runways.

The SC-1 uses five jet engines — four pointing downward to get it off the ground and to control its landing, and one for horizontal propulsion. It has stubby delta wings.

Wind Whips Floods In Mississippi

CHICAGO (AP) — Wind and waves pounded Mississippi River dikes Wednesday and set off new calls for help for flood-fighting forces.

The Red Cross has estimated that 31,000 persons have been affected thus far in 10 days of flooding in the Midwest. More than 1,000,000 acres of land have been inundated. Property damage has mounted into millions.

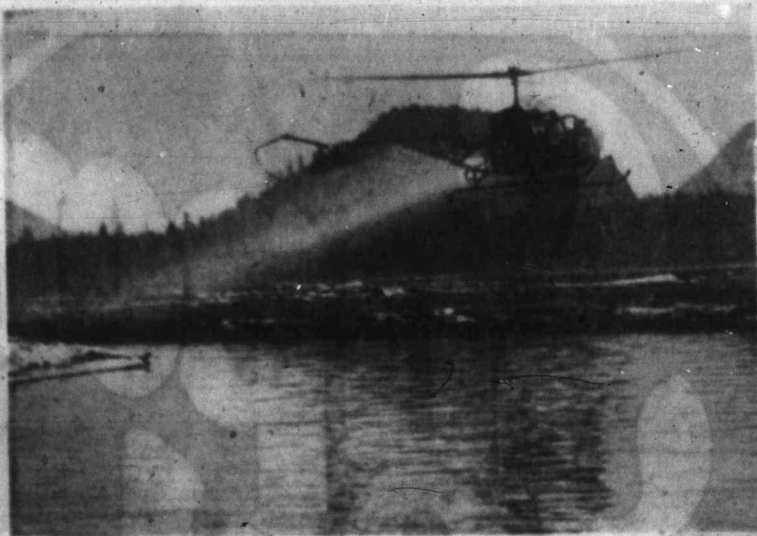

Mount Etna Erupting Again

CATANIA, Sicily (AP) — Mount Etna, Europe's tallest volcano, erupted Wednesday night, after four months of relative quiet.

Showers of ashes from the cone of the 10,705-foot volcano could be seen in this Sicilian resort at its foot. Explosions were coming at the rate of one every three or four minutes.

Villages are far down the side of Etna and were not in immediate danger.

Helicopter's spray dooms Ambrosia beetles.

Boom-Bombers Battling Beetles

COWICHAN LAKE—Tiny Ambrosia beetles are in for a big surprise this year when they come out looking for lush, winter-cut logs to use for their homes.

The 40,000,000 board feet of logs neatly tied in booms that have been the traditional birth of their young has now been sprayed by a helicopter.

After hibernating through the winter, the beetles will sleepily stagger from their beds in the "duff" and rudely awaken to the fact that scientists have beaten them.

A solution of benzadine hexachloride, that does not mix with water, has been proven completely effective, safe to fish, and fast. Hector Richmond, entomologist for the pest control committee of the B.C. Loggers' Association, explained yesterday.

For the first time in B.C. the method of spraying by helicopter and the new chemical have been used. Spraying was done on logs cut early last winter.

It is expected to save the forest industry millions of dollars that have always been lost by the pest ruining top-grade lumber by filling them with "worm" holes.

Mr. Richmond said that spraying was done earlier this week on Crown Zellerbach and B.C. Forest Products logs. Yesterday the operation was completed on Western Forest Industries booms.

Fish in tanks hung from booms at depths ranging from six inches to six feet showed no ill-effects from the spray when checked 48 hours after spraying.

Mr. Richmond jubilantly said that besides being so effective against the "pest" without injuring fish, the cost to lumber companies is cheaper because the helicopter gives off an "atomized" spray.

Less chemical is used—10 gallons per acre of felled logs—and less manpower as well as time is taken.

"We are interested in the preservation of logs that have been cut and will be kept during the spring and sometimes during the summer in water before being cut," he said. "But, we are just as interested in making sure the spray is non-toxic to fish."

The tests here were done with the aid of the federal fisheries department.

And no more will the male and female beetles get together and bore into the logs to the depth of the sap, and make their home with several galleries in which they lay their eggs.

They'll have to make their home in logs that are far less expensive or die when they come in contact with the insecticide.

Commuting Addicts Sentenced

High Cost of 'Fixes' Lower in Vancouver

NANAIMO—Two Victoria drug addicts testified yesterday that they went to Vancouver for their "fixes" March 16 because heroin caps are cheaper on the mainland than they are on Victoria's illegal drug market.

Weighty Crisis Facing Police

VANCOUVER (CP)—A traffic constable handed out 17 tickets to trucks not bearing weight figures Wednesday before Supt. John Fisk suggested there isn't anything in the Motor Vehicle Act requiring trucks to display gross vehicle weight figures.

Officials are awaiting word from Victoria on whether there is any such legislation. If there isn't, the tickets will be cancelled.

The pair, Michael David Errett, 24, and Douglas Edward Carlson, 24, both received jail sentences here yesterday.

They were apprehended by RCMP while leaving a ferry at Nanaimo.

Errett drew a five-year penitentiary term for trafficking and a two-year concurrent term for possession; Carlson was sent to Oakalla for 18 months for possession.

Errett had 48 caps of heroin on his person when arrested. Both said they had no intentions of trafficking. They were "users," they said, and had bought the drugs in Vancouver because they cost less than in Victoria.

Cowichan Hopeful on Grants

CHEMAINUS—North Cowichan council hopes the government supplementary grants will "remove the load" of increased school taxes from the shoulders of residents in Ladysmith school district.

Reeve Donald Morton said he feels the increase for this area of the municipality was so "heavy" that he asked to meet with Education Minister Leslie Peterson.

He made the remarks at a council meeting when the 1960 budget totalling $1,147,685 received its first approval.

It showed a half-mill increase for the majority of the taxpayers for general taxation, and a little more for school purposes to property owners in Cowichan school district, which extends into the south end of the municipality.

"I went to see the minister of education about the north end's problems," he said. "I don't know if it did any good." He said the budget and the 30.21 mills may be reduced if the government grants are received, and are generous, before the budget is finally adopted, probably early next month.

On taxes for most of the residents, Coun. Tony Staples commented:

"The half-mill increase for North Cowichan is very good news considering the increase Vancouver taxpayers face."

The increase for Chemainus area residents, in Ladysmith school district, is more than four mills.

Taxes on real property is based at 7.47 mills (to bring in $195,960) with each mill worth $26,233. Also budgeted are 2.53 mills for repaying debts.

For school purposes, Cowichan school district is set at 19.55 mills to bring in $420,755. Ladysmith school district is based on 30.21 mills (each valued at $3,367) and to bring in $162,190 in taxes.

Taxation for special taxation areas (fire protection, garbage, sewers, waterworks) amounts to about $130,000 and is about the same as last year.

Neighbors Rebuilding Guttered Home

PORT WASHINGTON—Fender Island Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring a community drive to rebuild the home of Miss Frances Saville, which was destroyed by fire in February.

Residents have offered labor, materials and cash donations to rebuild the structure.

Easter Riding Shows

DUNCAN—Cowichan riding and pony clubs will each hold horse shows Easter weekend.

On April 16 the pony club will have a show, under Canadian Horse Show Association rules, starting at 9.30 a.m. in the exhibition riding ring. Judge will be F. G. Errington of Vancouver.

The following day the Cowichan District Riding Club will hold its annual Easter hunter trial at Deacon's farm on Drinkwater Road. It will be followed by a demonstration of western riding.

The best riders and horses on the Island are expected to enter.

Super-Tanker in Drydock Here

Easy Does It with Giant Ship

Big ship handling requires sure team work.

Five tugs yesterday eased the 67,000-ton super-tanker Princess Sophie into the government graving dock at Esquimalt.

Island Tug and Barge, which handled the job, makes use of a portable radio hook-up to facilitate teamwork between the pilot on the bridge and tugboat skippers.

For the rest, easy does it. The giant tanker, owned by Niarchos of London, under Greek registry, entered drydock for overhaul and refit by Yarrows Ltd. shipyard. It is the first super-tanker "shave and haircut" job of the year for the local yard.

In the confined waters of Esquimalt harbor, Princess Sophie was nudged into her berth for the next few days by tugs Island Navigator, Island Booster, Island Rover, Island Comet and Swell.

Hands Off Mower Till Blades Stop

When you're tempted to adjust a power mower in use—wait until those blades stop turning.

This warning was issued yesterday by Dr. J. L. Murray Anderson, medical administrator at Royal Jubilee Hospital, where in the past week emergency treatment was given in four cases for gashed hands and fingers.

Six Routes This Year

Ferries Girding For Big Summer

Ferry services to Vancouver Island are gearing for a record tourist season.

For the first time, this summer, there will be a choice of six sea routes to the island.

For ferry operators whose predictions at this stage range from "heavy" to "extremely heavy" travel, there is an unknown quantity—competition from the B.C. government ferries.

The government has announced it will operate two ships between Swartz Bay and Tsawwassen early in June, with sailings at two-hour intervals during a 16-hour day.

A spokesman for one of the established ferry companies openly expressed fears that competition from the new mainland ferry route might cut deeply into their business.

Another newcomer, Black Ball Transport Inc., will operate four daily trips between Victoria and Port Angeles when it begins summer scheduled operations June 12.

A CPR spokesman announced the company will resume its triangle run between Vancouver, Victoria and Seattle, starting May 20 and continuing until Sept. 24.

Ferries will leave Vancouver at 11:15 a.m., arriving in Victoria at 3:30 p.m. and sailing for Seattle at 6 p.m.

On the return journey, ships leave Seattle at 8 a.m., arriving here at 12:50 p.m. and departing for Vancouver at 2:10 p.m.

CPR boats on the Vancouver-Nanaimo run will be increased to nine round trips daily starting May 20. Washington State Ferries announced it will start with two daily round trips between Sidney and Anacortes May 20, increasing this service to four trips a day June 10 to Sept. 6.

Black Ball ferries, operating between Nanaimo and Horseshoe Bay on the mainland, began operating its full summer schedule April 1. There are sailings in both directions every two hours from 6 a.m. to midnight.

Some 300 nudist delegates attended the CSA convention here three years ago. This year's convention will be held again on the Sol Sante Club's 170-acre property.

Walter J. Hannam, 22 Midwood, veteran member of the Sol Sante Club, said last night members are already enjoying fine spring weather at the club—swimming, fishing and boating on the lake and playing volleyball, badminton and horseshoes on outdoor courts.

City Faces Hard Cuts Or Boost in Tax Rate

By R. O. MARRION

It's a brow-furrowing time of year for Victoria's mayor and aldermen.

In what's left of April, before the 1960 budget is considered, they have difficult decisions to make.

• They can tie themselves down to the taxpaying ability of home-owners on low and fixed incomes. If they do, according to present indications, they can keep the general-and-debt tax rate level for the fourth year in succession only by noticeably cutting existing services and entirely ruling out improvements.

At that, they can't control the school tax rate, expected to increase about 10 per cent.

• They can cast loose from the ability of the poorer to pay. If they do, they will be accepting the reiterated advice of the city comptroller that "the deferment of necessary items of expenditure inevitably results in their cost being increased." A municipal government cannot mark time. It either progresses or deteriorates.

And if they approve all the special expenditures for improvements which both department heads and council committees have deemed necessary this year, the general-and-debt tax rate will probably increase about four mills, or 13 per cent.

They can steer a middle course, and this they most likely will do. A two-mill increase in the general-and-debt rate (unless there are surprises in store in budget figures not yet available) would prevent existing services from being cut and would provide for a few of the most needed improvements, including a three-decked new deck for Johnson Street bridge.

The aldermen have little hope of equalling their budget-cutting record of last year, when they trimmed out proposed expenditures totalling $360,000. They managed that without seriously affecting existing services by turning down special expenditures for improvements totalling $227,000, and even so left some special expenditures in the budget.

CUT ALREADY

This year, pre-budget cutting has left them less to work on. If they slash all the special expenditures out of public works, parks and street-lighting estimates, the saving will be only $230,000.

A two-mill increase in general taxes and a two-mill increase in school taxes would increase the average home-owner's tax bill by $18.80. But the picture wouldn't be entirely black.

With the $22 increase in the provincial home-owners' grant, he would be better off than last year.

Indians' Protest

Mistake Says Chamber

Chamber of Commerce officials believe Chief John Albany of the Craigflower Reserve is on the wrong trail in calling for the chamber to "bury the hatchet" with Vancouver Island Indians.

Chief Albany challenged the chamber last night to "do its part for a change" in supporting Indian festivals and displays of traditional dancing.

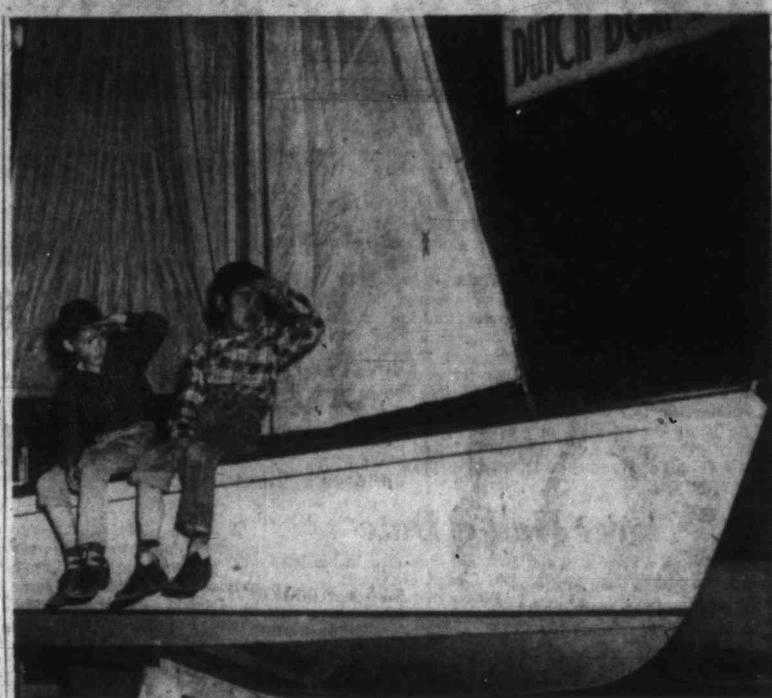

But chamber president W. A. Pendray, manager John Coppinger and Sam Lane, chairman of the tourist trade group, believe Chief Albany was confusing the chamber with the Greater Victoria Celebrations Association.

"So far as I am concerned, we will do anything we can to help them," Mr. Pendray promised.

The board intends moving Grade 12 students to Cowichan High School in September.

The board pointed out that instead of downgrading, the students would be receiving better science and commerce courses.

Controversial Arms Bylaw Changed Soon, Reeve Hints

NORTH COWICHAN — Reeve Donald Morton served notice to council yesterday that he is contemplating a change in the controversial firearms bylaw that hunters strenuously objected to last fall.

"I feel it could be changed so we could do without permits," he said after explaining that at the next meeting he will bring in an amendment.

The bylaw was passed by council last year barely before the pheasant season opened and forced hunters to buy municipal permits to hunt in areas that had always been open.

"Our error last year was in not having it passed before the shooting season," said the reeve. "Please give it your attention so it can be passed long before the season opens."

Other sections of the bylaw restrict shooting in built-up areas as well as privately-owned property where permission must be obtained from owners.

CAMPBELL RIVER (CP) — A logging truck driver had to be pried from the cab of his truck Wednesday after a brake failure caused the vehicle to slide sideways another vehicle.

Andrew Pahlko, driving for the Alice Lake Logging Co. operation 50 miles north of here, was pinned in the truck for more than two hours. He suffered a broken leg and bruises.

DUNCAN — Cowichan school board last night denied it is "downgrading" a school here and told a delegation that by moving students to a larger school it is doing the opposite.

One of the delegation's claims that the board treated George Bonner Junior-Senior High School as though it was "illegitimate" drew the comment from Trustee Will Peck that "the board has consistently acted for that school with the same energy as any others."

The board intends moving Grade 12 students to Cowichan High School in September.

The board pointed out that instead of downgrading, the students would be receiving better science and commerce courses.

NANAIMO — Two motorists were fined for minor driving offences in police court yesterday.

Theodore Paul of Lake Cowichan was fined $10 after pleading guilty to a charge of failing to stop at the intersection of Trunk Road and Trans-Canada Highway, March 26, that is marked with a flashing red light.

PORT ALBERNI — John Morris, born in Conway, Wales, in 1873 and a resident of Port Alberni for 37 years, died in West Coast General Hospital on Monday.

Mr. Morris, a well-known figure in Port Alberni, was raised in Lancashire, England, and became a cotton spinner. He was a master spinner at the time he left the industry to come to Canada.

He was employed here as a section hand for the Alberni Pacific Lumber Co. and later became a member of the city works crew.

He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Phoebe Linden, Port Alberni; a grandson, John Morris Linden, Port Alberni; two granddaughters, Mrs. Dorcen Dawes, Nanaimo, and Mrs. Anis Couloude, Gordon River; 14 great-grandchildren.

Rev. Glen Stevenson will conduct the service at 1:30 p.m. Saturday in Stevens funeral home.

NANAIMO — A high school drama festival opened here last night with Gil Bunch of Saanich adjudicating. Winning actor and actress and the winning play of seven entered will be selected tonight at the Nanaimo High School auditorium.

DUNCAN — Eli H. Palskett, 62, a former butcher and later janitor in the government building, died in hospital yesterday.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 2 p.m. in Hirst funeral home.

Born in Worthington, England, he came to Canada 53 years ago and lived most of that period in Duncan.

Surviving are his wife, Alice, and a cousin, Jane Evans, of Duncan; and several nieces and nephews.

Burial will be in Mountain View Cemetery.

CAMPBELL RIVER — Victoria Symphony Orchestra will play here for the first time in its history Sunday. There will be separate concerts for students and adults in the auditorium of Campbell River High School.

Students from schools in the Campbell River area will attend a 60-minute concert starting at 2 p.m. In the same auditorium, starting at 3:15 p.m., the orchestra conducted by Hans Gruber will play another concert for the general public.

The 70-member orchestra will travel in two buses from Victoria, returning the same day. The concert "double bill" is jointly sponsored by the Rotary Club of Campbell River, Teachers' Association and Canada Council.

Collision with Bus Injures City Girl

A 17-year-old girl was slightly injured about 4 p.m. yesterday when in collision with a bus at Yates and Douglas.

Monica Fulton, 1969 Hampshire, was taken in city police ambulance to Royal Jubilee Hospital, treated for abrasions, and later discharged.

Berlin Requests B.C. Totem Poles

When Russian troops stripped Berlin of heavy machinery and tools immediately after the Second World War, they also appropriated the Berlin Museum's collection of Pacific Coast Indian totem poles.

And that is why Wilson Duff, provincial archeologist, received a letter this week from Berlin.

It was from the director of the Berlin Museum, appealing for "large original totem poles."

But, Mr. Duff said, he can't help the museum. All the poles which his department has collected were obtained with the express undertaking that they will be displayed only in Victoria or Vancouver.

And there are almost no others left standing on their original sites.

Girl Breaks Arm In Slide Fall

Six-year-old Helen Price, 3249 Maple, broke her right forearm at 3:45 p.m. yesterday in a fall from the slide at the Oak Street playground, Oak and Cloverdale. She was taken by Saanich police to St. Joseph's Hospital for treatment, and allowed to go home.

"I guess wherever I go, London, Paris, Switzerland, Italy, Greece, it will be the same old story—I just won't be able to stop telling people about Victoria.

"And I don't really want to, either," he added with some conviction.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren will augment from their own savings a retirement bonus "package" which consisted of return tickets to London plus

New Warning Radar Increases War Risk

OTTAWA (CP) — Some authorities here are jittery as completion nears of the first of three missile warning radars.

They feel that this warning system is necessary but that, at the same time, it increases the chances of a nuclear war breaking out by miscalculation.

The big disadvantage of these 3,000-mile radars is that they can't distinguish between a nuclear-headed intercontinental ballistic missile and a peaceful satellite.

In fact, normal interference

caused by sun flares and the like might appear on the radar scopes as a missile in space.

Canada is paying some $11,000,000 toward the cost of undersea and land communication between the radar at Thule, Greenland, now nearing completion, and North American Air Defence Command headquarters at Colorado Springs, Colo.

The network is a stop-gap until the United States develops the Midas satellite which would provide warning of missile launchings in the Soviet Union.

Canada will share with the United States control of the missile warning radars because one information centre will be at NORAD, a joint Canada-U.S. command.

It would not be up to NORAD to launch missile-and-bomber retaliation.

But there will be another display centre at Strategic Air Command headquarters at Omaha, Neb.

Gen. Thomas Power, SAC commander, said last year he would not fire his missiles simply on the strength of information picked up by the missile warning radars.

"Sure as shooting," he said, objects detected by the radars could well turn out to be "spooks, interference or something like that."

In the long run, all the radars may accomplish will be to keep NORAD and SAC headquarters in a state of nervous prostration.

NATIVE RESISTANCE BROKEN IN NEW AFRICA CRACKDOWN

Easy does it, as the 67,000-ton super-tanker Princess Sophie enters Esquimalt graving dock yesterday assisted by five tugs. Huge ship will get refit at Yarrows'. (See Page 19.)

Police Action Mars Capetown Holiday

CAPETOWN (Reuters) — Government forces smashed Negro "danger points" Wednesday while South Africa officially celebrated the coming of the white man to the Cape of Good Hope more than 300 years ago. (See also Page 3.)

A strong government force encircled the Negro township of Nyanga outside Capetown, where police and Negroes clashed several times earlier this week. Police said the community was held by "terrorists."

300 ARRESTED
Heavily armed police and army reservists broke a pocket of Negro resistance outside Durban. More than 300 "agitators" were arrested in the Negro suburb of Lamontville.

At the same time, the government reimposed the rule requiring non-whites to show identity cards to police on demand. An African campaign against the hated pass system sparked the current emergency. Police two weeks ago temporarily suspended the pass rules, which control the movement and activity of non-whites.

POLICE, TROOPS
Police and troops cracked down on the 16-day-old African campaign for political rights—marked by native strikes—while thousands of white South Africans headed for beaches and special holiday sports events.

An official holiday marked the establishment of the Cape Colony by Dutch settlers under Jan Van Riebeck April 6, 1652.

FEW ATTEND
Celebrations marking the creating of the Union of South Africa May 31, 1910, opened simultaneously with a $30,000,000 exhibition in Johannesburg, but crowds at the exhibition were small.

ARMED TROOPS
Troops completely closed off Nyanga township during the day while most of its 25,000 Negro inhabitants were at home.

BAYONETS FIXED

HIT HOSTELS
A strong force of police and army reservists moved in on a cluster of workers' hostels at Lamontville before dawn Wednesday. Police said defiant Negroes refusing to go to work had held the centre since Monday night.

WEAPONS SEIZED
The Negroes surrendered and more than 300 of them were arrested. Police said they confiscated thousands of clubs, axes, picks and three firearms in the hostel buildings.

BULLETIN
CAPETOWN (UPI) — Troop-supported South African Police poured into the native compound of Nyanga today and resumed beating blacks who refused to go to work. It was the biggest display of force yet in Nyanga.

Business Hits Verwoerd Acts

By KEN MacTAGGART
Colonist Special Correspondent
JOHANNESBURG — The first serious crisis for the Verwoerd government loomed today as a rising wave of criticism of its violent anti-native policy recruited South Africa's powerful business forces.

In the face of the Public Safety Laws and the arbitrary authority to imprison without trial anyone who even suggests change of any legislation, the Cape Chamber of Commerce has requested an audience with the prime minister at which it is reported a demand will be made for government recognition of native leaders, changes in pass laws, and less rigid control of native movements.

OPEN CHALLENGE
Backed by comparable business voices in the Rand or Johannesburg area, the Cape chamber in this action has openly challenged the emergency regulations because government policy on all the matters it proposes is embodied in statutes.

NOT BY POLICE
Although some still believe a separate development for natives is possible, they say it cannot be achieved by unilateral action.

Senator Seeks 'Friendship Dam'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Construction of Libby Dam jointly by the United States and Canada as a symbol of their friendship was suggested Wednesday by Senator Mike Mansfield (Dem., Mont.).

Wind Whips Floods In Mississippi

CHICAGO (AP) — Wind and waves pounded Mississippi River dikes Wednesday and set off new calls for help for flood-fighting forces.

The Red Cross has estimated that 31,000 persons have been affected thus far in 10 days of flooding in the Midwest. More than 1,000,000 acres of land have been inundated. Property damage has mounted into millions.

Mansfield, assistant Senate Democratic leader, wrote his suggestion to State Secretary Christian Herter.

"Would it be possible," Mansfield asked, "to build the Libby project on the border between the two countries within the state of Montana and the province of British Columbia?"

"Would not a joint effort of this kind serve as a symbol of the friendship and the dependence, one upon the other, of the people of Canada and the United States?"

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Vancouver man who lost his sense of smell in an automobile accident three years ago has been awarded $12,600 in damages.

The settlement was announced to Chief Justice Sherwood Lett in B.C. Supreme Court Wednesday by J. Arthur MacLennan, counsel for Reginald Bailey of Vancouver.

"I shall be taking scientific observations on the effects of living on grass," she told reporters.

'Flying Barrel' Goes Straight Up

BEDFORD, England (AP) — Britain claimed a major breakthrough Wednesday with the first successful flight of a plane that takes off and lands vertically.

The plane is the jet-powered SC-1, otherwise known as the "Flying Barrel." Test pilot Tom Brooke-Smith took it on a circuit of a research airfield.

"Now we can take it off vertically, fly it away and bring it back just as we shall do with supersonic airliners in a few years time," he said.

The makers, Short and Harland Limited, said that apart from civil uses, the SC-1 makes possible the development of SC-1s, otherwise known as "Flying Barrels."

The SC-1 uses five jet engines — four pointing downward to get it off the ground and to control its landing, and one for horizontal propulsion. It has stubby delta wings.

Spain Item Denied

OTTAWA (UPI) — Defence Minister George Pearkes Wednesday called "inaccurate" a Manchester Guardian report that the only NATO countries which don't object to West German military bases in Spain were Canada and Portugal.
